FOUR MEN DENY BEING ON $75,000 BOND TO BECKER

Former Directors of Englewood Bank Declare They Have Release From Secretary of State.

OFFICIAL EXHIBITED PAPERS AS SECURITY

But Signers Declare That They Stepped Out From Under When Cashier Cole Took Charge.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18.—Secretary of State Charles U. Becker may have a bond from directors of the Englewood bank to protect State automobile license funds deposited there, but the men supposed to be on the bond don't believe it.

When Gov. Baker demanded yesterday that the bond be produced immediately Becker was not in Jefferson City. Earlier in the day, however, he had exhibited to newspaper correspondents in Jefferson City a bond for $75,000 dated Feb. 1, 1926, and signed by Rufus Buros, Arthur Smetzer, Harry S. Truman and Spencer Salisbury.

That bond, Becker said, was his protection of the $24,000 of state money he had deposited in the $10,000 bank that closed soon after $25,000 of questionable assets had been thrown out by a bank examiner, and it became known that more than $22,000 of assets were chargeable to associates of Becker in his Missouri Press Publishing Co. and political and personal friends of his.

Out of Bank for Months. Those four directors, however, had been out of the bank for four months. And they have correspondence with Becker which they are presenting as a release from that bond.

Buros, Metzger, Truman and Salisbury bought control of the bank Feb. 1, 1926, from Paul E. Cole, then cashier. Between the time the bank was involved Jan. 25 and the date of taking charge they discovered Cole had crammed the bank full of bad assets, some of which were:

An unsecured note for $7500 from the Missouri Press Publishing Co.

An unsecured note for $500 from Ernst D. Wilson, an employee of the Becker Publishing Co.

An unsecured note for $2000 from Cole himself.

A collection of $5000 in "Plaza Royal" bonds of no market value originally issued to Wilson as an attorney's fee.

More than $2000 of "cash items" that were considered questionable.

The men taking charge of the bank spent strenuous days getting restitution on these items from Cole, Wilson and the Becker company.

Directors Take Precautions. When Cole and other associates repurchased the bank April 17 from Buros, Metzger, Truman and Salisbury those men lost no time in attempting to free themselves of obligations Cole might load on the bank, a precaution proved justified when a State examination of the bank disclosed another collection of the same kind of assets, this time totaling more than $25,000.

A letter was written immediately to Becker notifying him of the charge of the bank's control and asking release from the bond held by him—the one exhibited yesterday in Jefferson City as what Becker would supply in compliance with Gov. Baker's demand.

Becker replied that he would release the bond signers at once, getting a new bond from the new directors. The correspondence has been saved carefully by an official of that regime in the bank.

Although there would be no loss probably to the bank's depositors under the plan announced yesterday for reopening the depository, these directors have felt since the bank closed Aug. 7 that they were protected from liability on the Becker deposit by the correspondence.

Certified copies of the correspondence will be supplied to Gov. Baker if he calls for it in connection with the State audit ordered of Becker's state auto funds.

BRAZILIAN AUDIENCE AT 'HAMLET' DEMAND LAST ACT

Shout 'Kill the King' Until Theater Manager Explains in Curtain Speech.

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 18.—"Kill the King! We want the King killed!" was shouted from the gallery of the opera house last night when the manager of the opera company cut short the opera "Hamlet," by not giving the final scene. A near riot followed his action.

Tito Ruffo sang the leading part. The occupants of the orchestra seats remained in their chairs until the lights were turned off. Then the gallery crew began whistling, shouting and pounding the floor. The manager, finally, had the curtain raised and delivered a speech to the unruly element in which he declared that it had not been the custom in recent years to present the final scene.

Hoots greeted the manager's explanation and there were continued angry shouts and demands that the king be killed. Finally, however, the audience departed without having seen the monarch slain.

FIRE THREATENS BIG REDWOODS

Forest Supervisor Appeals for 2000 Volunteers in California.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 18.—The giant redwoods of the Sequoia National Forest, which have existed for centuries in their mountain fastness, were threatened today by fire. In an urgent appeal to San Joaquin Valley civic organizations, Frank Cunningham, supervisor of the forest, declared that the huge trees are doomed unless a fire near Badger can be brought under immediate control. He requested the recruiting of 2000 additional fire fighters.

The Badger blaze already has swept over 60,000 acres, composed mostly of brush land and small timber, but at last reports was forging unchecked toward Redwood Canyon, in which is located 3000 acres of the finest Sequoia Gigantea and sugar pine in the world.

Pay Dirt

The safest and surest methods of finding wealth and profit may be learned by observing the character of investments chosen by the founders of great American fortunes.

Many of them found "pay dirt" through investment in real estate in outlying sections of a growing city.

Opportunities in St. Louis are here—Today, in city and suburban lots, homes and business properties, improved and unimproved.

You do not have to seek farther than the values listed daily and Sunday in the Post-Dispatch's "Real Estate" column.

They will prove "pay dirt" indeed to those who buy now.

WARREN C. FLYNN DROWNED AT BEACH ON LAKE MICHIGAN

Former University City Mayor Disappeared in Shallow Water at Grand Haven.

NONE IN CROWD SAW HIM SINK

He Was Bathing With Wife and Children at Time—Body Will Arrive Here Tomorrow.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

The body of Warren C. Flynn, St. Louis insurance man and former Mayor of University City, who was drowned yesterday in Lake Michigan at Grand Haven, Mich., where he was spending his vacation with his wife and two sons, will be brought to St. Louis tomorrow morning for burial. He was 42 years old.

The drowning occurred at 3 p. m. during the afternoon bathing hour, when hundreds of the summer colony were in the water. He disappeared, inexplicably, in about four feet of water, and almost before it had been discovered that he was missing his body was found in the breakers 500 yards up the beach.

Chauncey B. Adams of the St. Louis accounting firm of C. B. Adams &amp; Co., who has taken charge of Flynn's body, said today that the long distance telephone had no witnesses to the drowning had been found.

Vanished Unaccountably. "Flynn had gone in bathing with Mrs. Flynn and his two sons, Warren Jr., who is 16 years old, and Marsh, who is two," Adams said. "They had been in the water only a short time when it was discovered that Flynn was missing. About the same time word came to the beach that the body of a man had been seen in the breakers about 500 yards up the beach where the Flynn family was bathing. A coast guard crew found that the body was Flynn's."

That was only 15 or 20 minutes after Flynn had disappeared. The coast guard tried to revive him by artificial respiration measures, but could not.

The beach is regarded as a safe swimming place and Grand Haven residents say there is little danger there, especially on a calm day such as yesterday, when there is little surf.

Adams said the undertaker who took charge of Flynn's body said the lungs were filled with water, showing that he had drowned, rather than succumbed to a heart attack or other illness. In this connection it is recalled by business associates that he had a thorough physical examination two years ago after typhoid fever and at that time was pronounced in first-class physical condition.

Life Insured for $150,000. As agent for the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. here Flynn was an ardent believer in the insurance idea. Business associates said today he carried more than $150,000 in life policies and approximately $50,000 in policies against accidents.

He left St. Louis two weeks ago with his elder son for Grand Haven to join his wife and younger son who had been spending the summer there. The Flynn home here is at 421 Westgate avenue, University City.

An aggressive business man with a genuine interest in the advancement of his community, Flynn was for many years a leading spirit in University City affairs and with the death of Mayor August Herman in 1920 was elected to take his place.

In 1921 he was re-elected to the office for a two-year term, during which he sponsored many measures for civic improvement, as well as taking an active part in fraternal and welfare activities in St. Louis.

Notably those of the Masonic order and the Community Fund.

He was again elected Mayor in 1923 and in the following year became seriously ill. He remained in ill health until the following year and because of that fact declined to make another race for the mayoralty. He was succeeded by A. O. Cunningham, who died last May and was succeeded by Eugene D. Ruth Jr.

Among the constructive measures credited to Flynn's administration as Mayor were the establishment of three city parks, one of which is named for him; the reconstruction of the city hall and the addition to it of an auditorium for public meetings; the abolition of the fee system in favor of a more economic salary scheme for city employees, and the initiation of a $475,000 bond issue for public improvements.

FATHER ON STAND DENIES THAT HE KILLED DAUGHTER

Student Asserts That Man He Saw at Scene of Murder in No Way Resembled Defendant.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 18.—As the seventeenth day of the trial of Wallace Cloyes Gaines on a charge of murdering his 22-year-old daughter, Sylvia, opened here today, indications were that the case might go to the jury before night. More than 100 witnesses have testified.

Presentation of evidence ended within an hour yesterday after the defendant had been cross-examined for three and a half hours. In virtually no detail did he swerve from a story of his movements on the night of the killing. The State was not able to shake his denial of misconduct toward his daughter.

The last defense witness was John Leneve, a student. He testified that four hours after the murder he saw a man, in no way resembling Gaines, within 30 feet of a lakeside grove of trees in which the young woman's body was found.

John A. Billings, a Seattle city fireman, said that within five minutes of the hour of the killing as fixed by State investigators he saw Gaines two miles from the scene of the crime.

The body, disrobed and bruised, was found June 17 on a lake shore. Miss Gaines was a graduate of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., in 1925, and came here in November to visit her father who she had not seen in 16 years. Gaines and her mother, who now is Mrs. H. E. Maynard of Lynnfield, Mass., parted 17 years ago.

Gaines' Brother Charges Political Plot; History of Case. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 18.—Aside from the unusual motive ascribed by the State, the murder of the 22-year-old college girl, Sylvia Gaines, has attracted widespread interest because her accused father, W. C. Gaines, is a brother of County Commissioner William A. Gaines, a leader in Republican politics here. Miss Gaines came here last fall from her mother's home in East Lynnfield, Mass.

The prosecution has shown that she left her father's home at about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, June 16, after a quarrel with him.

Gaines said she was merely going for a walk. The State avers she was fleeing his home to take refuge with friends so she could break up the relationship that had grown up when she came here last fall to see the father who had abandoned her and her mother in the East 16 years ago.

The girl was killed an hour later, about two miles from her home, on the shore of Green Lake, within sight and earshot of a busy street and a few houses. A clear view of the scene, he crime was committed at dusk, before darkness had fallen completely.

Killed With a Stone. The murder instrument was a stone. The death wounds were on the right side of her face, suggesting that they were inflicted by a left-handed person. Gaines is left-handed. The girl also was strangled, but although quite a few persons were near the scene, no one heard an outcry.

Gaines during the night and next morning called friends, saying he was searching for his missing daughter. He became intoxicated the morning went on and by the time his daughter's body was identified in the morgue he was talking incoherently, so that the State dropped efforts to question him as to her disappearance.

When he finally told of his actions the night of the murder, discrepancies appeared, but officers were reluctant to suspect him.

But the investigation was pressed by Sheriff Matt Starvick, who had told an acquaintance that Gaines had made what has been construed as a confession to him half an hour after the murder.

Gaines, according to Stern, went to Stern's house and begged a drink. Then, recalling a previous threat that he would kill any one who tried to interfere with him at

MAZER TO BE HELD BY U. S. AUTHORITIES

District Attorney Withdraws From Inquiry Into Mellett Murder in Ohio.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein this afternoon announced personal withdrawal from the investigation into the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher. He sent a letter to Prosecuting Attorney Clark, of Stark County, saying that county authorities if any further action was desired.

Bernstein said he had enough evidence to procure the indictment of Mazer and Carl Studer, former partner of Mazer, of the liquor conspiracy charge on which both are held, but that it did not appear that investigators would be able to wear down Mazer to a murder confession, Mazer also charged with the murder.

"I have come to the conclusion that for the purpose of safeguarding the interests of all parties concerned and particularly to preserve the best interests of the Government in this somewhat complicated situation, the two men involved, Mazer and Studer, shall remain in the custody of the Federal authorities," Bernstein's letter said.

While Mazer was being questioned as to the murder phase yesterday and today he virtually confessed his part in the alleged liquor conspiracy and implicated others, it was learned from investigators.

First to be questioned today by Federal agents was his wife, who was taken from the murder inquiry, and Joseph R. Roach, Chicago criminal attorney conducting a cleanup campaign in Canton, was Norman Clark, Canton lawyer, who had made affidavit that he "talking too much about the murder." Clark is to be pressed for all information he is believed to have concerning operations of Canton bootleggers and the murder plot. Clark, at times, was legal representative for several alleged Canton bootleggers. Mazer later is to face Clark.

District Attorney Bernstein today denounced what he termed evident "leaks" in information which should have been held in confidence by the Canton investigators.

Mazer was taken to Federal Building today under a guard of three officers because an automobile occupied by six men, had been circling the block in which the jail is. Officers feared there might be a plot either to kill Mazer to prevent him giving further testimony, or to kidnap him. Bernstein may hold Mazer, regardless of the developments in the case, to protect him from "his own gang."

Throughout yesterday Mazer, confronted by Bernstein and other investigators, denied implicating in the murder. He sought to establish an alibi that he was at the home of a friend four blocks from the Mellett home at the time the murder occurred.

Canton, O., Detective, Confirms Alibi Presented by Mazer. By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Floyd E. Strettenberger, a detective of Canton, O., here for a convention, is the friend Louis Mazer told investigators he was with the night of the Mellett murder, and he intends to do all he can to exonerate Mazer. Strettenberger reiterated his declaration that he had an alibi for Mazer. He departed for Canton today in response to a request from police officials there.

The detective said he would establish beyond doubt that Mazer was in Strettenberger's home at the time of the slaying.

55 VOTES FOR TWO SOCIALIST TICKETS

City Put to Extra Expense to Accommodate Parties Having No Contests.

To accommodate 55 voters the city had to print several thousand ballots, mostly blank, for the Socialist and Socialist Labor parties for the primary of Aug. 3. Enough of the ballots had to be printed to provide a supply at each of the 624 polling places, and the sample ballots printed in newspapers at the city's expense were increased three and one-half news columns by the addition of the two Socialist tickets.

There was no contest for any nomination on the Socialist tickets and for most of the nominations no name was even filed. Only two names of candidates were printed on the Socialist ballot and 12 on the Socialist Labor. But the names of all offices had to be printed, with blank spaces beneath so that names could be written in if anyone wished to take that trouble.

The official count, completed yesterday, showed that 29 votes were cast on the Socialist ticket and 26 for the Socialist Labor ticket. With this addition the aggregate vote in the primary was 129, 525, or a few votes less than 48 per cent of the registration, which was 269,888.

Robert D. Morrison of Milan is the Socialist nominee for the United States Senate, and William W. Cox of 2200 A Hebert street, is the Socialist Labor nominee.

SAM DOSS VICTIM OF ASSASSIN HIRED BY BOOTLEGGERS, OFFICIALS THINK

Constable Slain by Shot Through Window at Home in Desloge, Mo., Had Stormy Career.

TERROR OF BAD MEN FOR LAST 20 YEARS

He Was Convict, Law Officer and Churchman in Turn—Reputed to Have Left $40,000.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DESLOGE, Mo., Aug. 18.—Bootleggers' vengeance against a volunteer prohibition informer became the predominant theory of the motive for the murder of Samuel Doss, for 20 years the terror of local belt men, when it was definitely learned today that he had prompted recent activity by Federal agents of the St. Louis group in St. Francis County.

Doss, a former constable and a candidate for re-election to that office when he was killed by an unseen assassin who fired through a kitchen window at his home Monday night, went to St. Louis a month ago. He told Federal agents of 10 saloons in lead belt towns where liquor could be bought, and two dry agents were sent to the district.

Two local informers were hired to buy liquor in various places. Nine bottles were taken to St. Louis, but search warrants were never executed because Doss reported that "some one had tipped off the bootleggers."

The case recalls the murder of Andrew Deek, former saloon keeper and dry informer at Herculaneum, who was shot to death in 1921 by men hired to "beat him up." Of seven men tried, one is serving a life term in the penitentiary and six have been acquitted.

Conjecture has it that Doss was killed by a hired assassin, as it is the popular belief that none of his enemies had the courage to face the tall grim figure in combat. Besides the bootleggers, Doss was feared and hated by so many men that St. Francis County jail could not hold all who might have desired his death. With suspicion pointing in so many directions, authorities wait, hoping for a substantial clue.

Legend of Sam Doss. A legend had grown up about Sam Doss, whose appearance belied the fact that he was an informer. Six feet tall, with broad shoulders, hard features, and a 45-caliber revolver always at his hip; convict, saloonkeeper, deputy sheriff, constable, churchman, and loyal husband to a wife 25 years his junior.

Men who knew him say he was unscrupulous, hard, selfish, but with a fearless and capable politician. With bad men, they say, "he knocked 'em cold and talked afterwards."

The squat fortress-like bungalow he built here on a wooded plot at Main and Cherry streets, reflected the character of the man. He was 58 years old when he was killed in his boots, and was worth $40,000 to $50,000, according to general belief. Men shake their heads when asked how he got his money and explain that the highest position he attained was Constable.

For two years he captured only a special watchman for the National Lead Co. at a small salary.

Served Prison Term. For 40 years, Doss' life had been stormy. Born in West Virginia, he went to Murphysboro, Ill., where in 1894 he was mixed up in a fake foot race, a widely used swindle in those days in which the promoters disappeared with the stakes. Doss fled to Missouri where he was caught and taken back. After trial and faced with a five-year prison sentence, he fled from his jailer but was captured later at McClure, Ill., and compelled to serve three years, when he was pardoned.

With his citizenship restored, Doss moved to Missouri and at Caldwell, in the lead belt near Desloge, he established a saloon where gambling, it is said, was an every night occurrence. Fifteen years ago, he married a girl of a good family in Blumark, Mo., became a Deputy Sheriff, and got a job as payroll guard for the National Lead Co.

In 1912 he joined the Methodist Church at Desloge with his young wife and was a regular churchgoer to the end.

Called for Dangerous Jobs. In succeeding years he built up a reputation. When peace officers

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN REMMERS AVOIDS FACTIONAL FIGHTS

New Head of City Committee Says He Has Not Signed Petition to Recall Miller.

Mayor's Supporters Backed Fred Delporte Who Got 26 Votes to 30 Cast for Remmers.

Although some members of the Republican City Committee objected that Oliver T. Remmers, who was elected chairman yesterday, lacked previous experience on the committee, it cannot be said that he has had no political activity.

He served two terms in the State Legislature, having been elected first in 1910, and ever since then has been close to Collector Koeln, who was instrumental in helping him into the office. As an ally to Koeln he has been busy in most of the campaigns since then, but heretofore he and his mentor usually have operated without the aid of the party committee.

The alliance of Koeln with his old political enemy, former Mayor Kiel, and with Circuit Clerk Schmoll, brought about Remmers' elevation to the head of the Republican organization. He was made a member of the committee from the Twelfth Ward at the primary two weeks ago, when the new combine defeated Mayor Miller's forces and gained control of that body. However, with Miller away on vacation, his lieutenants sought to regain control by making Park Commissioner Pape the chairman.

Delporte got Miller vote. At the eleventh hour Pape's candidacy was abandoned because a majority could not be obtained for him. Fred Delporte, Fifteenth Ward committeeman, was the only opponent of Remmers. Delporte once was a Miller supporter, but broke with the Mayor and was classed as an independent. In the vote for chairman he received Miller backing, personal support and the votes of a few who oppose the Kiel-Koeln-Schmoll combine. The vote was: Remmers, 30; Delporte, 26, with a minimum of 29 of the 56 men and women members required to elect.

Delporte and his backers promptly made the election unanimous, which brought a shower of thanks from Remmers. Later, Remmers declared he did not expect to have a mere working majority formulating party policies, but to have the committee operating as a unit for the benefit of the Republican party. He did not know which members voted for or against him, but that even so he thought were on the other side had congratulated him heartily, and he expected differences to be forgotten.

"As chairman," he declared, "I shall not be a boss, but spokesman for the committee. It shall never be said the chairman usurped the power of the committee. As to patronage, disposition of major jobs should be considered by the committee and Republican jobs by its individual members. There should be a straight line between essentials and nonessentials."

Did Not Sign Recall Petition. Remmers had no comments to make about Mayor Miller except to say he had not signed the recall petition and had kept clear of the recall movement. He was asked about the possibility of an attempt by the Kiel-Koeln-Schmoll group to gain control of the Board of Aldermen in the election next spring in order to embarrass the Mayor, also whether he had thought of his own political future, since the party chairmanship has frequently been a stepping stone to public office.

"I have a single track mind," he replied. "I haven't thought of those things. My job now is to think about getting out the vote in November. The first thing universally conceded to be needed is to increase the registration. I am going to put it on a basis of patriotism. America is one of the oldest republics, yet only 50 per cent of the voters go to the polls. We can add 40,000 voters to the roll here. The Republicans can pick up every eligible Tom, Dick and Harry not on the books and still get a 'batting average' of them who are Republicans. It is a moral and political obligation for every man to vote.

The Republican City Committee's Chairman and Vice-Chairman

Remmers expects to devote all of his time to the party work prior to the November election. He was not at the November election, but the committee he urged it to be of service to the community and an influence for good. In a prepared statement issued immediately after the committee adjourned, he expressed the belief that the committee would work with him for "clean politics, capable candidates and good government." Results of the Republican primary, he averred, were generally held to be the "safest in years" establishing confidence in the primary system.

Remmers' Record.
Born in St. Louis, Remmers is 41 years old. He resides at 728 Kingshighway park with his wife and two children. He gained his education working in the law office of Grant, Carroll & Kenney and at Benton College of Law. In 1907 he became attorney for Anheuser-Busch, Inc., remaining until 1924. Meanwhile his duties were enlarged and he became active in his public relations, including advocacy of the views of August Busch on the enforcement or prohibition.

Collector Koeln was a state breaker as far back as 1910 when he gained the nomination and election of Remmers to the legislature, although Remmers' name was not on the Republican committee slate. Remmers' plurality in the election was the largest a Missouri legislator ever received before woman suffrage. Two years later he was re-elected, being the only old-line Republican Representative from St. Louis, when the Bull Moose were rampant. He was the "baby" of the House in 1911, being 25 years old. Two years later he became the youngest Republican caucus chairman. He declined the nomination for State Senator in 1914. His policy is not to let politics interfere with business.

In the Republican housecleaners' campaign in 1920 Remmers was active with Koeln against the Kiel forces. Only four of 28 committeemen were with them, but their candidates were elected and Schmoll was defeated for Sheriff and Tony Schuler for Treasurer. Later Remmers backed Schmoll for Circuit Clerk and Schuler for Sheriff in the belief they were qualified for those offices. This summer Remmers spent his time with Kiel and Koeln supporting Senator Williams for renomination, and paid little attention to his own committee race. His expense account, filed yesterday, shows he spent only $61, for cards and banners.

Remmers is chairman of the Legislative Committee of the St. Louis Bar Association and of the Automobile Club of Missouri and a member of the Board of Governors of the latter. He is past president of the St. Louis Safety Council, in which he has been active. His law partner, Ernest A. Green, is president of the St. Louis Bar Association. Their office is in the Boatmen's Bank Building.

MESTRES RE-ELECTED DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN

Harmony Reigns as City Committee Gets Together and Organizes for Campaign.

Time was when St. Louis Democrats fought anyway whether there was anything to fight about or not. A better era has dawned, perhaps because of the advent of women in party management, and yesterday's organization meeting of the newly elected Democratic City Committee was harmonious.

Somebody moved that Chairman Joseph J. Mestres be re-elected, and it was unanimously voted to re-elect him. Another member thought it would be nice to elect Mrs. Peter Hogan vice chairman, and everybody agreed. In the same felicitous way, Mrs. Josephine Rebori was chosen for secretary. State Senator Joseph Brogan was re-elected treasurer, and John Keegan was made sergeant-at-arms.

Mestres, who has served two 2-year terms as chairman issued a statement with "harmony" in the first sentence. He said some praiseworthy things about Representative Hawes, nominee for the Senate, and added that many Republicans would vote for him. He also said that the Democratic Congressional committee will meet to organize on the afternoon of Aug. 31, the Tenth District Committee at Forest Park Highlands, the Eleventh at Grand boulevard and North Market street, and the Twelfth at the City Committee's headquarters in the Tower building.

5 Dead, 12 Hurt in Tornado.
By the Associated Press.
WILSON, Ark., Aug. 18.—Five Negroes were killed and 12 were injured in a tornado northwest of here last night.

The committee when women entered it with full rights two years ago and immediately, at the age of 25, obtained the highest office open to women in the local party organization. She was unopposed for re-election to the committee but had two opponents for vice chairman yesterday. The vote was: Miss Kamer, 32; Mrs. Marie Nottbusch, Twenty-first Ward, 21; Frank A. Becker, Thirteenth Ward, 2.

Charles R. Gillespie, Twenty-eighth Ward, was chosen treasurer. Mrs. Celeste T. Blesso of the Twentieth Ward was re-elected secretary; and Louis (Tub) Becker of the Eighth Ward sergeant-at-arms. Gillespie, an employee of the president of the Board of Public Service, is an anti-Miller man. In his successful race for the committee from the Thirteenth Ward Henry Ebanesh spent $392. His expense account shows, while Gus Oetting, former Supply Commissioner, elected from the Second Ward, spent $430, including "primary day expenses," $430.

MRS. EBLE URGED FOR COUNTY TREASURER

G. O. P. Committee Recommends Her Appointment to Late Husband's Place.

The Republican County Central Committee yesterday voted to recommend Mrs. Theresa Eble to Gov. Baker for appointment to succeed her husband, the late Michael Eble, as St. Louis County Treasurer until Jan. 1, when a Treasurer for the remainder of the term, chosen at the November election from candidates to be selected by the Central Committee, will take office.

Eble died Sunday after holding the office for nearly six years, having been re-elected near the top of the ticket in 1924. The salary is $3600 a year, plus fees amounting to about $900 annually. The whole slate of officers of the Republican Committee was re-elected, with women still holding the reins as Chairman, Mrs. Gertrude Le Masters of Central Township; treasurer, Mrs. Anna Boissier of Meramec Township; secretary, Mrs. Edna Fyehouse of Carondelet Township; vice chairman, Philip Deuser of St. Ferdinand Township.

These took office Feb. 5 last, following a shake-up in the committee. It was charged in a primary campaign speech that there were discrepancies in books of the committee before that date. Yesterday the report of an audit of the books since then was read, showing nothing in the treasury on Feb. 5, and $491.87 there now. Officers elected by the Democratic Central Committee were: Chairman, Peter J. Walsh of Central Township; vice chairman, Mrs. Eugenia Slater of St. Ferdinand Township; secretary, Mrs. Irene Young of Bonhomme Township; treasurer, Mrs. Julia W. Billups of Central Township.

VALENTINO REPORTED SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

Moving Picture Star Rested Comfortably, Latest Bedside Bulletin Says.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—A slight improvement in the general condition of Rudolph Valentino, movie star, was reported this morning from the Polyclinic Hospital, where he has been seriously ill since a double operation for gastric ulcer and appendicitis on Sunday.

A bulletin issued by three physicians at 10 o'clock said: "Valentino rested reasonably comfortably last night and showed a slight improvement in general condition this morning. Temperature, 101; pulse, 90; respiration, 22."

The doctors say they have done all they can for him and his fate rests on the automatic resistance of the human body against infection.

No Visitors Admitted.
No one was admitted to his room yesterday except his doctors, nurses and personal representative, S. George Ullman. A guard was placed before his door and even Joseph M. Schenk, who has insured the famous actor's life for $1,000,000 and who cut short his vacation at Poland Springs, was denied admittance when he called with his wife, Norma Talmadge.

Valentino's condition was unofficially reported as "unchanged" this morning. He slept peacefully practically all night.

Shortly after 8 a. m. today a long distance telephone call from Los Angeles was received at the hospital. "This is Pola Negri. How is Mr. Valentino?" a woman's voice queried.

Takes Nourishment.
When assured that there had been no change in his condition the voice said "thank you." Similar calls were received during the late hours of Monday night and early yesterday.

Valentino slipped some chicken broth this morning, the first nourishment he has taken since his operation. Ullman said Valentino's fever had declined and that he was "much better."

"How much longer is this darned thing going to last?" Valentino asked, Ullman said.

Hungarian Counsellor Points Out New Alliances Do Not Show Confidence in It.

By the Associated Press.
WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 18.—Regional agreements between nations in Europe tending to undermine the foundation of the League of Nations, U. Pelenyi, counsellor of the Royal Hungarian Legation, told the Institute of Politics yesterday.

Recent rapproachments among the Central European countries indicate that the new alignments are not necessarily along belligerent lines, he said, but their establishment as a "second line of defense in case the League goes smash," hardly indicates a bone-fide trust in the efficacy of the League.

Youth Convicted of Attack on 9-Year-Old Girl.

By the Associated Press.
WELCH, W. Va., Aug. 18.—Adam Burress, 15 years old, was sentenced to hang yesterday by Judge James A. Strothers after a jury had returned a verdict of guilty without recommendation for mercy on a charge of criminal attack on a 9-year-old girl. The jury was out five minutes.

The only defense of the boy's counsel was his youth and a plea that he was undeveloped mentally. It was announced an appeal would be taken. Burress is the youngest person ever to be given the extreme penalty in West Virginia.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Aug. 18.—Opening of a large fissure at one end of Lake of the Woods, near here, threatens to turn all the water into subterranean channels. Vacationists have abandoned fishing and swimming, and appealed to the forest service to aid in "plugging the leak." The lake is three miles long and a mile wide.

Crossing Petition Rewinded.

The City of St. Louis today filed with the Public Service Commission a brief asking for reconsideration of its refusal to allow a crossing of the Missouri Pacific tracks by a proposed extension of Tholoan avenue. The city had proposed to build the crossing under the railroad right-of-way but the commission refused to grant permission on the ground that city had not specifically set forth the nature of the proposed under-path.

WEBSTER GROVES BOYS AID POLICE IN ENFORCING LAW

Lectures by Chief Result in Diminution of Pranks—Lads Report Other Violations.

There are only 12 uniformed policemen in Webster Groves, but as a result of a series of lectures given the boys of the suburb by Chief of Police McDonnell, more than 200 youths have been enlisted in the crime prevention campaign there. And when any of them notice an incident arousing their suspicions they immediately notify Chief McDonnell.

Boys' pranks, such as "tin-can-ning" dogs, have practically ceased since Chief McDonnell started his lectures, all of which have been on proper conduct.

Chief McDonnell gave his last talk of the summer today at Masonic Hall there. As was true of the previous meetings, it was well attended. The "Municipal Orchestra," which has 27 youthful musicians, organized by Chief McDonnell, played at today's meeting.

Funeral services for Mrs. R. T. Clark of Whitehall, Ill., mother of R. Vernon Clark of 5234 Westminster place, will be held tomorrow afternoon at Whitehall. Mrs. Clark died Monday of a heart attack. She is survived by her husband and a daughter in Whitehall.

Aldermen William Smith, Jr., Arthur E. Tubbs and Fred Robinson, who served during the Flynn administration, were appointed a committee to meet the body tomorrow.

Pruning Shears Found.
The State's attempt to find a pair of pruning shears used to slash Mrs. Miller's apparently was disposed of by Peter Tumulty, former chauffeur for Dr. Hall.

He had broken a pair for the State but had been searching for a pair of pruning shears at bridge about half a mile from screams about midnight 8:1922. At first it was two women heard screaming. Then he saw screams of this one woman into pitiful moans. The screams, he said, came from the Phillips farm house. The moans came from the victim of the crabapple tree.

State Senator Alexander tried a pair of pruning shears in the investigation, said today he had a number of resisters who would be called, namely, in the hearing of an eccentric brother-in-law slain rector, and Carpenter street Mrs. Miller, a cousin of the rector's widow.

The new witnesses, Simpson included a young woman, a son of a well-known family had been in De Russy's which traverses the Phillips New Brunswick, where Dr. Hall's widow, Mrs. Stevens Hall, is accused of murder. Her brother and are accused as her accomplice.

To Offer Alibi Defense. J. J. of New Brunswick. The fix of the time of the night between 10 and 11. Stevens was at home with his sister, Hall, through the night.

An extraordinary session of grand jury will be called, says, if Judge Cleary decide hold Carpenter and Stevens are affected by the hearing. If they are held, $15,000 bail vacated and he have returned to the jail, where she spent 50 hours her arrest July 29.

The New Brunswick Board of Trade has sent Gov. Moore a protest against what was called the "unethical and conduct of the murder inquiry Hall lives in New Brunswick. ### CRABAPPLE TREE SCENE OF MURDER

Spot Definitely Fixed by Doctor's Chemical Analysis of Soil Underneath for Blood Traces.

By Associated Press.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 18.—
Testimony that the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir singer,
Mrs. Eleanor Mills, were murdered at the crabapple tree on the Phillips farm in New Brunswick, where their bodies were found, was given today at the hearing of Henry de la Bruyere Carpenter and William Stevens.

Dr. John F. Anderson said he analyzed the soil beneath the tree and ascertained, by blood evidence, that the pair were slain within a foot or two of where the bodies were discovered.

Belief that the murders occurred in the Phillips farm house and other places had been advanced.

Miss Almeda Harkins, a member of Dr. Hall's choir at the time of the murders, testified that she saw Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills going to keep their tryst. Mrs. Mills, Miss Harkins said, was walking rapidly toward De Russes' lane, carrying a small package. She was showing the package of letters found between the bodies and said this might have been the package.

About 15 minutes after Mrs. Mills passed, Miss Harkins saw the rector hurrying toward the lane.

Pruning Shears Found.
The State's attempt to prove that a pair of pruning shears was used to slash Mrs. Mills' throat apparently was disposed of when Peter Tumulty, former gardener-chauffeur for Dr. Hall, testified he had broken a pair for which the State had been searching.

Harry McCabe, tender at a canal bridge about half a mile from the crabapple tree, told of hearing screams about midnight Sept. 14, 1932. At first it was two women he heard screaming. Then he heard only one. Finally, he said, the screams of this one woman changed into pitiful moans. The first screams, he said, came from near the Phillips farm house. The last moans came from the vicinity of the crabapple tree.

State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor in charge of the investigation, said today that he had a number of reserve witnesses who would be called, if necessary, in the hearing of Stevens.

Scottish brooder in the field of sleuthing, the Phillips farm, New Brunswick, where Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, were slain.

Dr. Hall's widow, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, is accused of the murders. Her brother and cousin are accused as her accomplices.

To Offer Alibi Defenses.
Counsel for Carpenter and Stevens have intimated to Judge Cleary that alibi defenses will be offered.
Carpenter, during the investigation of 1932, accounted for his presence until 10 o'clock on the E. K. Rice Jr., of New Brunswick. The state has fixed the time of the murders as between 10 and 11. Stevens also was at home with his sister, Mrs.
Hall, through the night.

An extraordinary session of the grand jury will be called, Simpson says, if Judge Cleary decides to hold Carpenter and Stevens, who alone are affected by the present hearing. If they are held, Simpson plans to move to have Mrs. Hall's 15,000 bail vacated and seek to have her returned to the county jail where she spent 50 hours after her arrest July 29.

The New Brunswick Board of Trade has sent Gov. Moore of New Jersey a protest against what it regards as the "unethical and hasty" conduct of the murder inquiry. Mrs.
Hall lives in New Brunswick.

Thus far the State has devoted its efforts to a corroboration of the testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson, pig-raiser, who testified she saw Carpenter, Stevens and Mrs. Hall at the murder scene and heard shots.

Saw Three Persons at Scene.
William O'Rourke, a contractor, testified yesterday he saw at the spot where the murders occurred a woman resembling Mrs. Hall
"lacing into" a couple he thought might be the rector and Mrs. Mills.
He did not hear the conversation.

The man, O'Rourke said, looked like Dr. Hall. A woman standing beside a short heavy man in dark clothes resembled Mrs. Mills. Another and larger woman, who seemed to be berating the others, he would not identify positively. He said he did not know if she was Mrs. Hall.

O'Rourke was asked if De Rus-ses' lane was not a noted tryst-ing place for lovers. He replied,
"There were so many lovers in Brun-

Home of Slain Constable at Desloge, Victim of Hired Assassin

THE Doss residence at Desloge, Mo., through a window of which Samuel Doss (below) was shot and killed, presumably by bootleggers whose enmity he had incurred.

in other parts of the county wanted to arrest a dangerous criminal,
they called up Doss. "Send for Sam Doss," was the common phrase when there was a dangerous job to be done.

And Doss, it is said, always came.
He never killed a man in pursuit of his duties, and had a trick of walking boldly up to his "bad man" and striking on the jaw with the side of his pistol. The National Lead Co. payroll never was threatened by robbers.

It is related that on one occasion an enemy drove from Flat River to Desloge with the avowed intention of shooting Doss at sight.
Doss was at the station with the payroll when the man's buggy came in sight.

"Well, there's so-and-so," said Doss. "I'll run over and see if he wants to kill me." He started toward the buggy, which swung around and moved rapidly back to Flat River.

Killed One Man.
Doss killed one man, so far as is known, in 1935, at a Fourth of July picnic. The man was an enemy.
Ott Hutt, who, according to evidence at a trial, was shot when he attacked Doss with a knife.

Doss, then a deputy sheriff, was acquitted.

Political aspirations came in 1932 when he ran for Constable of Randolph Township on the Democratic ticket and was elected by a large majority. In 1934 he was the Democratic nominee for Sheriff of St. Francis County and was ignominiously defeated. It is believed that the Ku Klux Klan opposed him. Doss was so bitter against the Klan that at times he would stop on the streets of Desloge to denounce the organization to anybody who would listen.

Contributing to his defeat was the fact that photographs of him in convict garb were widely distributed through the county. He swore he would "get" the man responsible for the pictures, and when he died rumor had it he had killed the man.

four men. One theory is that the changed clothes some time in the night.

These details have been marshaled before the jury in great detail.

And, as the climax to the State's case, an unexpected witness appeared last Friday afternoon, Harry R. Wynn, automobile mechanic, who testified he had seen Gaines old roadster parked on East Green Lake Way, 50 yards from the murder scene, at the hour of the murder.

County Commissioner Gaines has charged that his brother is the victim of a political plot to discredit
him. The commissioner is a candidate for re-nomination in the September primaries.

Gaines' first wife divorced him
after he deserted her and Sylvia, then a child of 5 or 6. He remarried here and his first wife also remarried. The daughter was planning to return to her mother's home
when she was murdered.

there that there wasn't room for me to go in."

This occasioned loud laughter
from the crowd in the court room.
Judge Cleary promptly ordered the room cleared of all but interested parties. "People who have no more brains than to laugh at a murder hearing should not come to court,"
he said. The crowd, after its eclectic, sat on the steps of the court house and waited for news of the hearing.

Two Cars Parked in Lane.
O'Rourke fixed the time he saw the three persons as 8:55 p. m. The State maintains the murders were committed at about 10:30 o'clock.
Barbara Tough, talkative Scotch maid formerly employed by Mrs.
Hall, told of surprising Dr. Hall with Mrs. Mills on his lap in his study at the church and of Dr.
Hall's rising without his wife's knowledge from a sick bed to drive through deep snow to the hospital where Mrs. Mills was a patient.

Renominated for Constable.
After his defeat for Sheriff, he sought appointment as a deputy,
but failing to get it contented himself with his duties as payroll guard. In the primary this month
he was nominated for Constable.

Doss gave the impression of being entirely without fear. Taciturn at times, and at other times loquacious, he generally insisted on having his own way and the only man in the lead belt who dared cross
him, it is said, was W. H. Conins, manager of the lead company.

He designed the fortress-like home, not from fear of assault, but because he leaned toward that style of architecture. The building is built of brick, looks hard and thick,
and a four-foot wall of surface rock surrounds the entire lot. On the lawn Doss erected a flagpole, on which an American flag hangs
at half-mast today.

Story of the Tragedy.
Monday night Doss and his wife went to Elvins, a mile away, to visit relatives. Returning, they had luncheon and at 9:45 o'clock decided to retire. Doss walked to the dining-room door, which is a few feet from a window which opens to Cherry street. He reached for a towel to wipe his hands when a shot was fired.

The assassin apparently fired a sawed-off shotgun from the street over the wall and glass plot under the window. Nine slugs pierced the screen and a scrim curtain, and seven lodged in Doss's head. He fell forward into the dining room, dead.

Mrs. Doss, who was only two feet behind him, ran to the door and out to the lawn. She saw a cloud of white smoke, but could see no man or vehicle in which he might have fled. No one, in fact, has been found who saw the murder, although one citizen reported that he heard an automobile in the neighborhood at the time.

St. Francis County's hardest man will be buried tomorrow afternoon, with services at his fortress-like home.

U. S. COMPTROLLER HOLDS UP
A. B. BIELASKI'S PAY VOUCHERS

McCall Disallows Items Aggregating $15,000 in Year for Prohibition Under-Cover Man.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Salary vouchers for A. Bruce Bielaski, under-cover man for the Government, are being held up at Washington by Comptroller-General Mc-Call. A letter from McCall to Representative Celler of New York
says:

"I have to advise that the records of this office disclose no payments to him (Bielaski) for salary as an officer or employee in the prohibition service. It does appear, however, from vouchers in the Treasury Department that Walter A. Green, chief prohibition investigator, has during the past fiscal year made numerous payments to Mr. Bielaski aggregating more than $15,000 for confidential information and assistance.

"It may state that credit has not been allowed for any of these items, final action thereon having been suspended pending further investigation."

Diary Referring to Murder Case
Found in Maryland.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—A diary containing references to the Hall-Mills murder case has been turned over to the Somerville, N.
Y., authorities by Washington police. Apparently written by a woman, it was found recently in a pile of trash by a girl in a nearby Maryland town.

Nicknames and given names were used in the sections relating to the murder, police said. Time and fire had damaged the book to some extent.

$800 Fire Damage to Six Trucks.
Damage estimated at $800 was caused by fire at 1:35 a. m. today in a building in the rear of 4705-07 Delmar boulevard, occupied by the Imperial Laundry. The fire started in a pile of waste paper, presumably from spontaneous combustion and damaged six Ford trucks.

ENGLISH MAGAZINE WITH LIQUOR AD BARRED FROM U. S.

Acting Customs Solicitor at New York Rules That It Is Prohibited Under Dry Law.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—All foreign magazines containing liquor advertisements will be barred from the United States if a tentative ruling by Edward S. Barnes, Acting Solicitor of the United States Customs House here, is sustained.

Mr. Barnes yesterday barred
"The Key to London," a magazine published in England chiefly for the information of American tourists, because it advertised a place where "Grant's Morella Cherry Brandy" might be bought in England.

The decision was rendered pending an opinion from United States Attorney Buckner, now on vacation. Barnes cited a section of the national prohibition act, which declares it is "unlawful to advertise anywhere or by any means or method liquor, or the manufacture, sale, keeping for sale or furnishing of the same, or where, how,
from whom or at what price the same may be obtained."

Exceptions are made for foreign newspapers mailed to the United States, he said, but "The Key to London" is classified as a magazine,
and was shipped by express.

Barnes said that under his interpretation of the law all magazines carrying liquor advertisements would be barred from the United States.

J. S. Baynton Williams, an official of the American Information Bureau of London, who arrived here from England, two weeks ago, said several thousand copies of "The Key to London" were admitted without objection last month.

Treasury Officials Uncertain As To Magazines.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Government officials are uncertain to what extent the prohibition act bars foreign magazines containing liquor advertisements from this country.

Ernest T. Camp, Director of Customs, said today the New York Customs officers were within the law in barring "The Key to London" printed in the British capital for the information of American tourists. But he suggested that in the absence of a general regulation, it might be well to limit the exclusion policy to those foreign magazines that are published to solicit American trade.

KENTUCKY DEPUTY SHERIFF SHOT TO DEATH AT HOME

Fired Upon From Ambush When He Appeared on Porch in Dark—Fought Bootleggers.
By the Associated Press.

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 18.—James Fee, 55 years old, deputy Sheriff at Yancey, was shot and killed from ambush late last night. Fee was preparing to retire and stepped out on his front porch when shots were fired, five or six striking him and killing him instantly.

Fee had been deputy Sheriff at the camp of Harlan Fuel Co. at Yancey for the last three years and has waged a relentless war on bootleggers. He had taken a number of persons before the county Judge yesterday and obtained warrants for several others. No arrest has been made.

BEING ON $75,000
BOND TO BECKER

posit, varying from $10,000 to $50,000 a month, in the First National Bank of Jefferson City, and that no interest is paid on it. The State Penal Board also carries an incidental fund averaging about $4000 in the same bank, with no interest paid.

Highway Department officials explained that no interest was requested on the funds of that department, because the numerous checks drawn against it required a large amount of clerical work by the bank's employees.

A note of exasperation crept into the communications of state officials, growing out of the Englewood bank closing, after Attorney General Gentry made a fruitless visit yesterday afternoon to Secretary of State Becker's office.

Becker had just sent an official message to Gentry, telling him that bonds given by the Englewood and other banks to secure deposits of State automobile license funds
could be seen at Becker's office.

Then Becker departed for Kansas City, leaving the bonds locked in his safe. When Gentry arrived, Becker's clerks told him the boss
was away, and that no one else was authorized to open the safe and exhibit the bonds.

Gentry went to the Governor,
Gov. Baker said down and dictated
a letter to Becker, ending with a formal and official request that Becker "forthwith" transmit to him a certified copy of the Englewood bank's bond. The Governor suggested that all other special state funds as well as the automobile license fund, should be audited.

Gov. Baker replied that, in the year and a half he has been in office, most of these funds have been audited by the State Auditor, including the moneys of the state
penal and charitable institutions, and most of the educational institutions. The auditor's deputies are just completing an audit of Southwest Teachers' College at Springfield. There are a few funds which have not been audited yet, and Gov.

Baker assured Becker that they would be taken up after the automobile license fund, as soon as the Auditor's force can get to them.

It was expected that Becker would return to Jefferson City this evening. Until he arrives, the bond will probably remain in the safe.
Becker has said that it is in the sum of $75,000, and that it secures the state against loss of any part of its deposit in the Englewood bank, variously stated as being from $10-000 to $24,000.

In the meantime preparations are being made to reopen the Englewood Bank. Finance Commissioner French has ruled that the 10-day period, in which a bank
may reopen, extends until tomorrow night, as the two Sundays since Aug. 7 are not to be counted.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18.— Definite announcement has been made that the Citizens' Security Bank of Englewood, a suburb, closed Aug. 7, is to be reopened this week. R. L. Train, one of the directors, and Judge Harry Truman are among the business men interested in the reorganization.

By increasing their own deposits and realizing on some of the bank's assets they expect to have more than $50,000 available when the bank is reopened. They hope there will be no continuance of the "slow run" which caused the closing. The gradual withdrawal of business followed reports of the difficulties caused by questionable

SIR ESME HOWARD PRAISES AMERICAN HIGH WAGE GOSPEL

Ambassador Says Humane Policy of U. S. Industry Leads to Spiritual Rebirth of World.

VIRGINIA DARE DAY SPEAKER AT ROANOKE

Theory of Nordic Superiority, He Says, Is Most Fallacious of Modern Political Premises.

By the Associated Press.

ROANOKE ISLAND, N. C., Aug. 18.—Belief that the United States is leading the world into a new era and a better way of life that ultimately will bring a "great spiritual rebirth," and thereby universal peace, was expressed today by Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador. He was a speaker at the anniversary of the birthday of Virginia Dare, first white child born in the American colony.

The material development of this country was set aside by Sir Esme as "a secondary matter." "What I specially rejoice in here," he said, "is rather the belief that this country is leading the world into a better way of life."

America's great contribution to progress is its humane policy in industry, in the opinion of Sir Esme. "Numbers of your leaders in public life and in industry seem to have realized before those in other countries that the health and happiness of the men and women who work in your factories, in your mines, in your great stores, are as necessary to the well-being and to the successful prosecution of a business as any other part of it."

Gospel of High Wages. "You have learned the gospel of high wages, as it has been called, and you have applied it and showed the world that it works."

"The new message that I think America of today is giving the world is that the lives of men are more than mere goods, and that peace and contentment are more than wealth. Of this latter, there is such abundance in this country in many quarters that it has become for many of its possessors a cheap and secondary possession."

"Therefore, I look forward to seeing America spread the gospel of this new learning in political economy over the world and so usher in an era of well-being, peace and content such as neither the extreme doctrines of the Manchester school, on the one side, nor those of Karl Marx, on the other, could possibly bring about."

Earlier in his address Sir Esme had said that Walter Raleigh was "the first of our (England's) great empire builders, as Cecil Rhodes was probably the last."

He took issue with the opinions set forth by a bishop, whom he did not name, in an article published recently in the Church School Journal, wherein the bishop stated that "in some ways the life of Cecil Rhodes is one of the most sordid human biographies on record."

Attacks Nordic Theory.

Explaining that he did not uphold everything that was done by the empire builders, Sir Esme nevertheless maintained that the establishment of civilized life as a substitute for uncivilized life was justified. He said he believed Rhodes' ideal of a dominant British race was a wholly mistaken one, for it could, if carried to its extreme limits, bring discord, rather than peace, since it was based not on good will among men, but rather on that, in my opinion, most fallacious of all modern premises in politics, the general superiority of the Nordic races."

Sir Esme spoke beneath the ancient oak, near the spot where the British flag first was planted on the western continent. Here 330 years ago Virginia Dare was christened.

Thousands attended the unveiling at Manteo of a monument marking the child's birthplace.

QUEEN MARY SUPERVISES PACKING FOR HOLIDAY TRIP

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—King George and Queen Mary are in Scotland for a quiet holiday and rest, after the strenuous London summer social season, which was followed by the Cowes regatta.
In Scotland royalty really enjoys some privacy. Queen Mary personally supervised the packing up for the move to Balmoral Castle.
On the northward trek this year Queen Mary occupied for the first time a new railway coach, built especially for her use. It contains besides a luxurious boudoir and bedroom, a fully equipped bath-room, which is something of a novelty in an English train, few of which ever make 12-hour runs.

LATIN NATIONS DIVIDE OVER ARMS CONTROL

Italy and Spain Object to French Plan for International Commission.

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

GENEVA, Aug. 18.—The Latin bloc in the League of Nations has split wide open over the question of an international inquiry commission, advocated by France, as a method of enforcing disarmament. The spectacular break occurred in yesterday's session of the disarmament commission when Italy and Spain joined Great Britain, the United States, Japan, Chile and the Argentine Republic in opposing the French program of control. Germany continued to abstain from taking part, while Sweden and Holland are on the fence.

The French succeeded in retaining the support of only Finland, Poland, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Rumania, and, confronted with defeat, sought to withdraw the proposals. This the Spanish chairman, Cobian, refused to permit. Speedy introduction of amendments by Rumania and other nations prevented a showdown and gave the Latin bloc a breathing spell.

The significance of the maneuver lies in the fact that France's primary motives are revealed. The chief of these is a determination to continue supervision over Germany's armaments along the lines of the Versailles Military Control Committee.

Although the Americans are participating in the fight against the French bloc, the delegation is outside the "inner circle" and has no information as to what is developing behind the scenes. Similarly, Japan is not vitally concerned except in naval matters. Hence the new lineup, eliminating the United States and Japan, leaves Great Britain, Spain and Italy against France.

MAIL PLANES OLD, RETARD SERVICE, HENDERSON SAYS

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Efficient air mail service in the United States appears an impossibility to Col. Paul Henderson, former Assistant Postmaster-General, until the Government replaces "antique" equipment on the New York-Chicago line.

Failure to maintain the schedule on the long route between the two terminals, he points out, results in disorganization of the schedules of the entire system.

While admitting generally bad weather conditions have prevailed over the Alleghenies, Col. Henderson, in a statement, charged that inefficient operation over the trans-continental route, was in a large measure due to the use of "old-fashioned" single-engine planes. Col. Henderson, who is general manager of National Air Transport, which operates the southwestern feeder line, said the west-bound mail failed to make connections with the Chicago-Texas planes 22 times out of 91 departures.

THE only way to think about some things is to STOP and think about them. Have you gotten so used to the misery of Monday that you have stopped planning your escape? Have you become hardened to the misery of washday? Our family plan of all washing for six cents a pound should make your life happier.

EXPOSITION LIGHTING SYSTEM COMPLETED

Whole Grounds to Be Bathed in Luminous Reflection by Concealed Lamps.

The lighting system for the Greater St. Louis Exposition in Forest Park, Sept. 4-19, has been installed. It consists of flood, spot, arc and incandescent lighting totaling more than 9,000,000 candle-power.

The main lighting will be similar to the new St. Louis street lights, with reflectors, however, to throw the light down to the ground. There are 280 street standards, each carrying two 1000-watt lamps. The ornamental entrance to the grounds will be suffused by flood lights, and from the top of the towering pylons rays from powerful searchlights will play into the sky. Other floodlights will be installed in the two central towers of Liberty Plaza. In contrast with past expositions, when the effort has been to stud all the buildings and decorative courts with lights visible to the eye, the effort at this exposition will be to conceal all lights from the eye, yet to bathe the whole grounds luminously.

The stadium in which will occur each night the chief entertainment feature of the exposition will be floodlighted, in addition to the usual brilliant theatrical lighting, to obtain the effects desired upon the revue, which is the feature about which the night show will be built.

The lighting was designed by Union Electric Light and Power Co., which donated to the exposition most of the materials used.

PAIR MARRIED IN AIRPLANE 5000 FEET ABOVE NEW YORK

Miss Ruth I. Hord, Bride of Prof.
H. C. McKown, Keeps Pact With College Chum.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Several years ago Miss Ruth I. Hord of Mount Pleasant, Tenn., and Miss Elizabeth Warnock of Pittsburg, Pa., students in the Teachers' College at Columbia University, agreed that when each married the ceremony would be performed in an airplane. Yesterday afternoon both went up from Curtiss Field,
L. I., and 5000 feet over Central Park Miss Hord became the bride of Dr. Harry C. McKown, a professor at the University of Illinois, who was an Aviation Lieutenant during the war. Miss Warnock was bridesmaid. The other occupants of the plane were Pilot W.
M. McMullen and the Rev. Leslie
J. Barnett, pastor of the Morning-side Presbyterian Church, Manhattan.

The plane was only a four-passenger craft, but seats were arranged that the pilot sat in the back of the cockpit and his four passengers squeezed into the seat ahead. When they had reached a point over the park, McMullen stopped his motors and glided slowly down in circles to permit the minister's words to be heard. This was the clergyman's first trip in the air.

New High Freight-Hauling Record.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Statistics disclosing the extent of the freight traffic record established during the first half of the current year were made public today by the Bureau of Railway Economics, maintained here by the carriers.
Measured in terms of the number of tons carried one mile, the total reached 227,116,889,000, which was 1,832,421,000 net ton miles greater than the highest previous record, set up during the first six months of 1923. The increase amounted to 6.9 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

"Now, She Knows"

"But she had to be impressed strongly with the necessity of this little daily custom of good health and refinement."

IT IS hard and difficult to do each day the little things that are necessary. At least it is trying at times to start them.

But we cannot overlook those practices that mean so much for

Prevention of disease, as all doctors acclaim, is important.

Most infectious diseases find the nose an open gateway. We must always keep the nose healthy and free from germs.
This can be done if we adopt the practice of daily nasal cleanliness.

Daily nasal cleanliness can easily be attained. Apply ARZEN in the nostrils night and morning. The first few trials will win you over completely to the advisability of its continuance.

The benefits are apparent at once. The nasal passages are opened and cleared. Disease germs are routed. You breathe deeply, freely and better. The whole body benefits.

But most of all there is that high delight in the sense of personal hygiene, of fastidious freshness that follows as the result of daily nasal cleanliness. It is equally as important as brushing
the teeth and just as pleasant.

SPECIFIC USES

Arzen used daily prevents colds. Stops them if started. Excellent for Hay Fever Relief. Also aid in sinus trouble. Daily nasal cleanliness prevents infectious diseases.
Keep the nose as clean as the face.

WOMEN HELD AS LEADERS OF MEXICAN PLOT

Secret Police Say Executive Board of Revolutionists Included Seven Men and Seven Women.

WAR DEPARTMENT WATCHING BORDER

Foreign Office Declares "Religious Elements" in California Contributed to Estrada's Revolt.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 18.—The Mexican Government is trying to arrest all persons it believes were connected with the alleged plan for a revolt last Sunday. Also it is keeping a careful eye upon the American border for possible revolutionary incursions into the northern states of the republic.

There is considerable speculation as to whether Mexico will request the United States to extradite Former Provisional President Adolfo de la Huerta, who is believed to be in California. Gen. Enrique Estrada, who is under arrest, and other revolutionists.

There have been numerous rumors in the capital that revolutionists have come into Mexico, or intend to do so, from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. The War Department says it has failed to verify these rumors.

Nevertheless, Secretary of War Amaro, who was on a military inspection trip in Durango, has gone to Chihuahua City for the purpose of directing troop distributions and military preparations against possible revolutionary attempts at the frontier.

The Foreign Office says it has received information that "religious elements" in California contributed toward Estrada's projected revolution. It asserts that special agents reported to the Government some time ago that funds were being collected in California to aid Estrada, who, with all of his outfit and his war stores, was captured by Americans near San Diego.

Women Leaders of Plot.
Jose Mascorro, chief of the secret police, says that Catholic women were leaders in the alleged plot for uprisings in various parts of the republic last Sunday. Furthermore, he says the plot was definitely connected with Estrada's plan, the two being intended to throw Mexico into revolution.

According to Mascorro's report, Josefa Novoa and Senora Luz F. Deperche, Catholics of San Angel, a suburb of Mexico City, were the guiding spirits in the plot.

Chief Mascorro said his secret police, posing as Catholics, favoring revolution, for some time had been attending meetings of plotters in their residence. The executive board of the revolutionary movement, he declared, consisted of seven men and seven women. Similarly, every district in which a revolt had been planned had women on the board of directors.

Senora Novoa and Senora Deperche are under arrest, with about 40 other persons. Altogether more than 60 persons have been arrested in or near Mexico City, but some of them have been released. Many persons are reported to have been arrested in other parts of the republic, including Gen. Carlos Ariza, who is declared to have been appointed by the League for Defense of Religious Liberty as military commander for an uprising in the State of Morelos.

Secret service agents say they saw arms and ammunition in the residences of Senora Novoa and Senora Deperche.

Agrarians Being Disarmed.
The government's campaign to disarm the Agrarians throughout the country is being rigidly carried out. Despatches from various points say that the church authorities have not authorized armed resistance by Catholics and that the Episcopal thinks the government officials are giving undue importance to the alleged plot.

Latin-American Office.
The foreign office admits that Latin American diplomats have made efforts to mediate in the religious controversy. It was said this was done at the instance of the Episcopal, but that the Mexican government was unable to permit any foreign mediators in a purely domestic affair. It was said also at the foreign office that it had information concerning alleged Catholic propaganda in the United States, Europe and South America against the Mexican government, but that President Calles daily was receiving messages of

SAYS MEXICAN FIGHT IS "INDIAN VS. SPAIN"

Congregationalist Investigator Says Natives Unjustly Blame Church for All Ills.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Hubert C. Herring, secretary of the Social Relations Commission of the Congregational Churches of the United States, stated yesterday, after returning from Mexico, that "the Mexican Indian is aroused and is striking out at Spain."

He said the Mexican struggle was not primarily religious, but was a struggle between liberalism and conservatism.

"Mexico is fighting its war for independence just as truly as any country has ever done," he said. "We of the United States should be slow to make her struggle any more difficult."

Herring, who has just spent six weeks in Mexico, has written extensively on Mexico for the religious and secular press. He said:

"In so far as Mexico is revolting against the church, it is far more of an Indian revolt against Spain than it is a religious revolt. President Calles said to me: 'We have no quarrel with any religion. Our quarrel is with the foreign imposed hierarchy.'"

Church and Government.

"I am convinced the present Mexican Government is not hostile to the Roman church. Whatever hostility there may be is directed against any hint of foreign intervention. They resent the appeal of the Mexican church to America."

"The Roman church has strong leadership. I met many priests and leaders. They are men of fine intellects and genuine concern for the welfare of Mexico. They are convinced that the country is being ruled by the Calles administration and they do as they think right in bitterly opposing it."

"I doubt whether one can say that the struggle in Mexico is primarily religious. It is a war between two social philosophies. The present Government of Mexico is liberal. The Roman church is traditionally allied with the conservatives. That furnishes enough powder for the fireworks. Add religion to the conflagration and you have a pretty mess."

"The Roman church came over with the Conquest, the cross was associated with the sword. Rome and Spain were one. Now at last the Mexican Indian is aroused. Life is striking out at Spain and all that Spain brought to Mexico. In this, the Mexican is undoubtedly unfair to the church. The church is accused of being responsible for all the ills to which Mexico is heir."

Mexico Incurably Religious.

"But I am optimistic about Mexico and her church. There are brains enough down there to find a way out. The Government means business and will probably have its way, but there is no reason why that way should prevent the church exercising all reasonable functions."

"Mexico is incurably religious and the Roman church possesses the love of the people. Of course, the church has made mistakes, but I have no patience with those who would load all the sins in the calendar upon the church. As a Protestant, I hope that this conflict will be speedily settled and that the Roman church and the Mexican Government will find some amicable basis for living together. Mexico is a Catholic country and the Catholic church has a great deal to offer."

"Ambassador Sheffield is unpopular among the Mexicans. They are probably unfair to him. But he lacks imagination. He is unable to appreciate the real idealism which is moving in Mexico. Mexico is fighting its war for independence just as truly as any country has ever done. We of the United States should be slow to make her struggle any more difficult."

approval of his stand from those countries.
Reports of casualties.
Durango dispatches which have not been confirmed, report that a priest and three civilians were killed while a group of Catholics were attempting to rescue them from soldiers who had captured the priest for an alleged violation of the law.

Advices from Colima are that one policeman was killed and several civilians wounded in a riot in the village of Ixtlahuacan, state of Colima. Several policemen, walking along a residence street in Coyocan, near Mexico City, are said to have been fired upon from a house. When they entered the building the occupants had fled, leaving cards inscribed "Long live religion, death to bad government."

Priest Killed by Mob While Trying to Save Mass.

Copyright 1926 by the Press and Publisher Publications Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 18.—A priest in the village of Tepic, in the State of Guerrero, declared himself to be a schismatic yesterday and attempted to celebrate mass. His parishioners swarmed upon the altar and in the melee that ensued the priest was stabbed to death. One man among the mob, who was arrested by the authorities, was taken from them by Indians and stabbed to death.

PROFIT EXCESSIVE ON STATE PRINTING, LAWYER CHARGES

Irwin Alleges Becker Pays
Some Newspapers More Than Value of Their Plants for Service.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 18.—Profits from the constitutional amendment printing contracts distributed to selected newspapers in each county of the State in advance of general elections, exceed in some instances the value of the entire plant of the newspaper receiving the political plum, it is alleged in formal suggestions filed in Supreme Court late yesterday, in support of a mandamus suit to compel Secretary of State Becker to receive bids on the 1926 contracts.

This political melon-cutting for the newspapers selected by the Secretary of State without competitive bids, involves awards of the publication contracts at the maximum rate permitted by law, regardless of the circulation or advertising rates of the newspapers selected. It has been used to political advantage both in Democratic and Republican State administrations.

As has been told, the Rev. Father John Fugel, a Catholic priest, who publishes a small independent newspaper in Vienna, Maries County, filed a petition in the Supreme Court Monday for a writ of mandamus, to compel Becker to award the 1926 contracts to the lowest and best bidder in each county.

Attorney Cites the Law.
Former State Senator W. C. Irwin of Jefferson City, attorney for Father Fugel, filed formal suggestion in Supreme Court yesterday, in support of the application. He pointed out that the State law provides that proposed constitutional amendments and initiative propositions to be submitted in a general election, shall be published for four consecutive weeks in advance of the election, in one newspaper in each county. Selection of the newspapers is entirely in the hands of the Secretary of State.

The law provides that the rate paid by the State for such publications shall not exceed $1 for a square of 250 ems (about one column wide and an inch deep) for the first insertion, and 50 cents for each subsequent insertion.

The law requires that the public official procuring the publication of any proclamation, order or notice, or question to be submitted to the people "shall accept the most advantageous terms that can be obtained," not to exceed the maximum State rate.

Irwin in his suggestions says these legal provisions make it the duty of the Secretary of State to make the awards to the lowest and best bidder.

"We do not undertake to control his judgment in the exercise of the discretion, where the discretion actually is exercised," the suggestions state, "but to wholly disregard the letter and spirit of the statute is an evil calling for correction at the hands of the Court, and which we seek to remedy."

Says Price Was Excessive.

Irwin stated that publication of the amendments in 1922 cost the State $2082 in each county and in 1924 cost $1359 a county. In 1922 a large printing company serving small newspapers furnished a printed supplement of the amendments at a cost of $145 for each 1000 of circulation, complete for the required number of insertions, he said, and in 1924 the company furnished the supplements at $125 a thousand circulation, complete for all insertions.

"Hence, a country newspaper with a circulation of 1000 could buy the printed insert and make a profit of $1937 on the 1922 contract," Irwin stated, "and in 1924 its profit would have been $1254. In many instances the profit to the newspaper was greater than the entire value of the plant owned by the newspaper holding the contract."

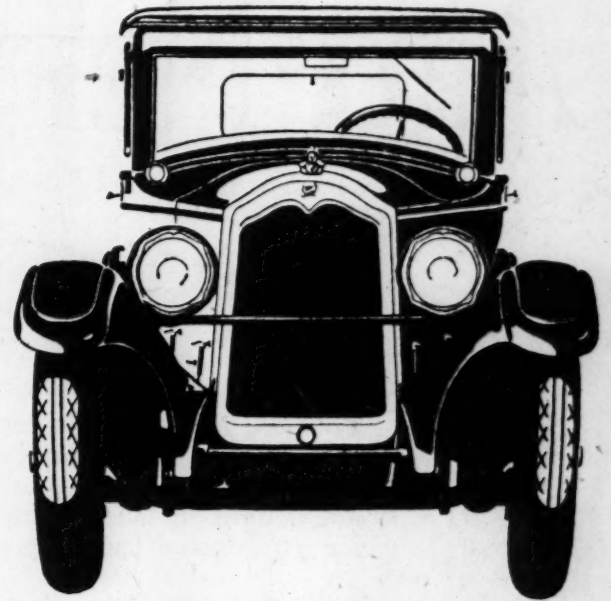

The same printing company in 1922 offered to sell the newspapers plates of the amendments for $65, Irwin stated, eliminating the cost of typesetting. In 1924 the plates were offered for $28.50, he said. The newspapers could buy the plates and do their own printing, if they desired.

"We submit that this is a gross abuse of public confidence," Irwin stated, "and that the Secretary of State should be required to transact the State's business upon the same basis that he would transact his own individual business; that is, procure the most advantageous terms that could be procured."

"This he has steadily refused to do, and has continued to let the contract at the maximum rate prescribed by the statutes without any effort to secure a lower rate, and has even rejected or refused to consider bids far below the maximum rate."

Irwin charged that in many instances where more than one newspaper in a county was seeking the contract the Secretary of State had divided the advertising. The contract price would be paid by the State to one newspaper and the money divided with the other newspapers printing the amendments in the same county. The law provides for only one contract to a county.

The 1927 Buick not only has the vibrationless engine, the vacuum cleaned crankcase and many other vital improvements which stamp it as the Greatest Buick Ever Built—

It has also a host of other improvements—refinements that surround the Buick owner with convenience and luxury. All the minor inconveniences, common to most cars, are eliminated.

Buick's enormous volume makes possible, at the moderate Buick price, these luxurious details:

Balanced Wheels. They produce an amazing road-stability.

Heel Operated Heater Control. A great convenience. Heater kicks on and off like the old-time cut-out.

Thermostatic Circulation Control. It increases starting efficiency, particularly in cold weather.

Quiet Transmission. Giant teeth on Buick's new transmission eliminate noise.

Jet-Black Tires With Jet-Black Rims. This under-carriage innovation is very attractive to the eye.

Suction Tip on Windshield Wiper. This holds the wiper in place when not in use, and keeps it from wandering across your field of vision.

Exclusive Upholsterings and Interiorware. The artistic upholstery and interiorware patterns, in the beautiful new Fisher Bodies for 1927, were created especially for Buick.

Arm Rests on Deck Seats. Smart arm rests add a distinctive touch to rear-deck seats.

Recessed Windows. Windows on 1927 closed cars are recessed, and finished in a duo-tone custom treatment.

Coronation Colors in Duco. The finishes on the new Buicks are in Coronation tones, the year's smartest custom effects.

How Dry Are the "Dry" States? South Dakota Will Be Dry In 20 Years Perhaps, Says Its Prohibition Director

Present, However, Its "Pie-plant Wine" Is a Strong Competitor of North Dakota's "Boom" Which Guarantees Action With the Second Drink—Home Brew in 50 Per Cent of the Residences in Bismarck and Fargo—Both Dakotas Had Dry Laws Early and There Is No Talk of Repealing Them, No Occasion for It, in Fact.

THIS is the tenth and concluding article of a series dealing with prohibition in the so-called dry states in the North and Middle West. It reports conditions in the Dakotas.

(Copyright, 1926)
FARGO, N. D., Aug. 18.—It is a fitting and proper, as our standard electionists would expect it, that we should conclude our series on the prohibition temperance movement in the Dakotas with observations on the Dakotas. The Dakotas are proud and yield not the slightest laurel to their cousins in the Union, East or West, on the question of liquor. They not only tell you they have prohibitions against intoxicants in their constitutions, but they back in the '80s, long before the amendment of his law? "Where can one get such 'pie-plant wine' as the South Dakota 'boom' puts up, or such stirring 'boom' as the North Dakota 'bad lands' could deliver? They assure you they should know something about the liquor problem.

For instance, a South Dakota, for instance, which was generally known to have had constitutionally barred John Barleycorn from its back in 1889, the writer was informed by Police Chief Costello of South Dakota that the state was "drying" in about five years or so, or maybe a little later. "You can bet your life that eventually she is going dry," E. L. Costello, famous crusader of the State at present its Federal prohibition administrator, was not so sure. It was his opinion that it would be time enough to congratulate ourselves if we are reasonably dry in 20 years.

North Dakota Awaits.
The North Dakota does little more than merely points to the "magic city," kept in a perpetual state of scintillation by the streams of Canadian stimulants that pour eternally into its lap; to Minot, which makes such good sense that it can afford to be so sure of its character that it can afford to shoulder the Canadian import to Devil's Lake, especially toward certain wants of tourists, to Dickinson, to Crosby, to Grand Forks, to Bismarck, to Fargo, to Minot, to North Dakota.

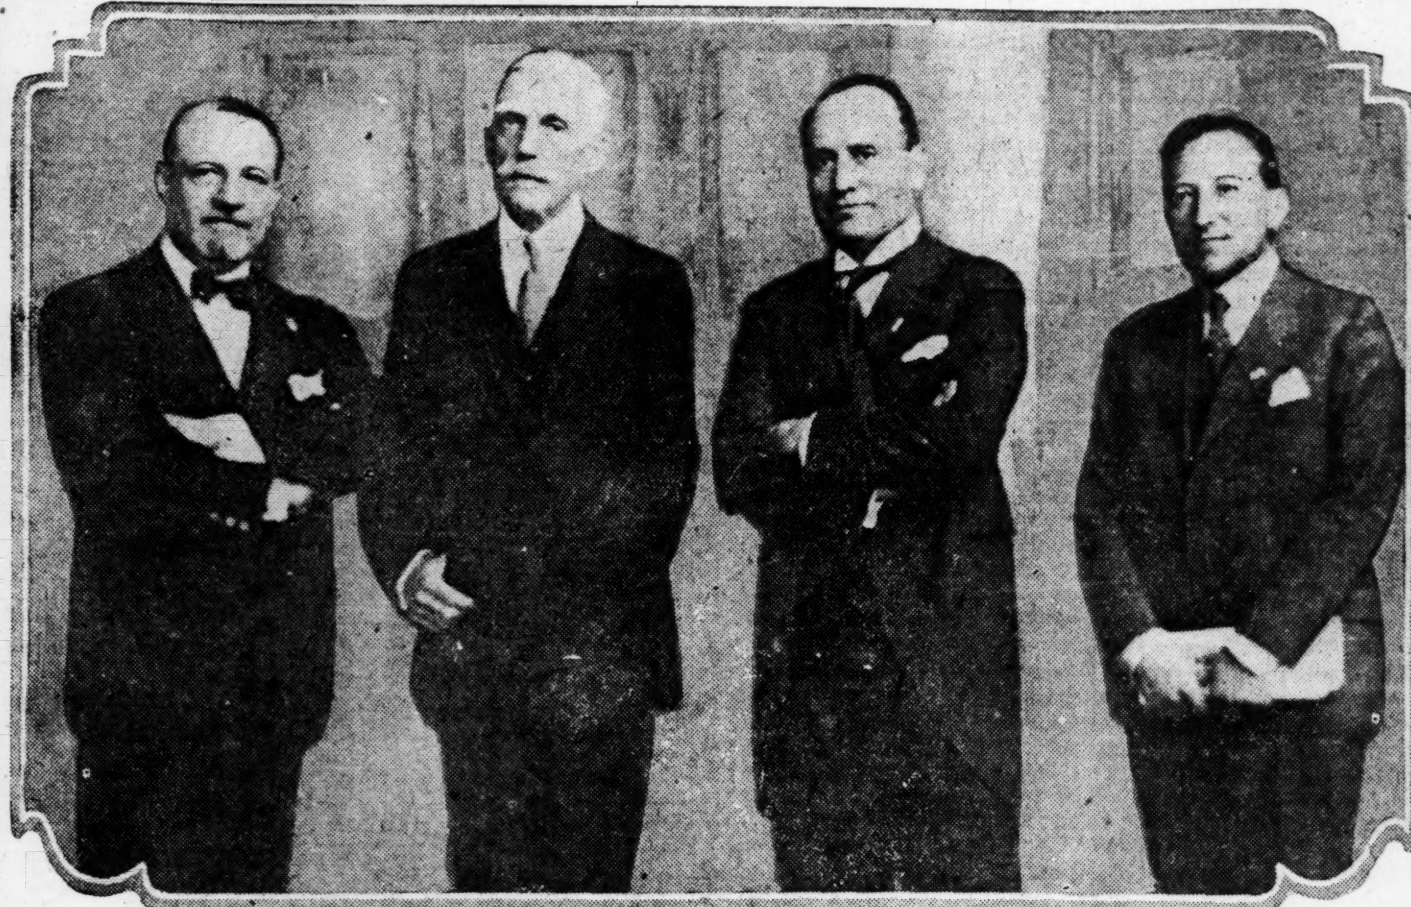

All of which simply means that the Dakotas are very wet. Their constitutional amendments against the dispensation of intoxicants appear to have had little recognition in the inhabitants. The officials of South Dakota admit that the state is still a bootleggers' haven, and the western North Dakotans who began to buy the "bad lands" product of these stills seeped into every corner of the community and the good people of the state, seeing their law flouted, added more and more provisions, so that by the time of the arrival of Volstead, North Dakota had enacted stringent regulations against bootlegging.

Like Kansas, North Dakota had provision against the sale of caskets. Tobacco bootleggers depended upon the business in swarms, and the soldiers, seeing the large quantities flowing into the pockets of these interlopers, decided to take the tide of gold into the State treasury by having the law repealed last year.

Talk of Depeal—No Need for It.
There is no direct talk here yet of having the State liquor laws repealed, but for all the actual nullification they may as well have been. The State has a high record for drunkenness. T. F. Drew, the desk officer in the police department and keeper of the records, says that the 458 arrests for drunkenness recorded on the April 30 represent only a tenth of the actual number of persons who annually are observed intoxicated about town, and that these arrests only constitute the "canned heat" and vanilla extract victims who have been paralyzed by these concoctions and needed medical care rather than police attention.

Nevertheless the people of the town thought it wise to institute a curfew law and boys and girls under 16 years old are required to be at home by 9:30 o'clock every evening.

Nor is the ample quantity of liquor in this city unknown to the youngsters, it being known that the so-called dance halls about town have been the scene of many a drinking party by the youth of both sexes, and that the so-called bar dances on the outskirts of the city have given the authorities much to worry about because of the liquor revelry frequently staged there. It reached the point where the Sheriff had deemed it advisable to have a deputy chaperone these affairs to maintain a semblance of sobriety among the participants.

Despite the apparent surface quietude, the observing North Dakotans have not been ignorant of the scene about them, and not so long ago a substantial group of these citizens called a mass meeting in Bismarck "to protest," as their invitation read, "against the condition engendered by the failure of prohibition" and to discuss the situation, because they were "disgusted at the increase of law violations, including bank robberies, perjury, intoxication and the drinking of liquor by young boys and girls and believing that the attempt to enforce the Volstead act is producing a brand of citizenship which is dangerous to the future welfare of the United States."

South Dakota's Dry Laws.
The situation is little different in South Dakota, although prohibition has had harder riding than in the northern community. The South Dakotans apparently didn't like their liquor barriers, and for a long time after they voluntarily placed these restraints, against themselves in their constitution they ignored them completely. Saloons ran wide open and the population almost forgot they had the laws on their books. Then somebody decided that they might as well not be on the books and the amendment was actually repealed in 1896 because it hadn't been enforced anyhow. In 1917 they reconsidered their action and put it in again. But the law is as little enforced to day, say its city officers, even with the added prestige of the Volstead act, as it was in the old days.

From the records of the State sheriff's office it seems there is plenty of work for the enforcement officers in the State. The State sheriff and his five deputies made 853 liquor arrests in the year ending July 1 of 1926. This constituted the greater portion of the duties of this office, which had made 1352 arrests of all kinds for the current year. The work of enforcing the liquor laws in South Dakota appears to be the major work of the county officers, nearly all the inmates, for instance, of the Lawrence County Jail being liquor offenders.

There are bootleggers in Pierre as there are in Bismarck, the housewife in Sioux Falls makes her home brew as does the lady of Fargo, and wine runs as plentifully in Deadwood as it does in Minot. But the South Dakotan is particularly proud of his "pie plant" wine. Nor is the juice of the dandelion far behind as a favorite.

Dry in 20 Years Perhaps.
There is any amount of moonshine to be had with the Black Hills furnishing the costliest kind of home for innumerable stills. The 10 Federal agents under the direction of E. L. Senn, the prohibition administrator for this State, captured about 600 of these last year, but Senn says "It can hardly be hoped to dry up South Dakota for at least 20 years."

Perhaps he saw the difficulty of evaporating the immense reservoirs of Sioux Falls and Aberdeen and Pierre and Huron. Nor can any dry honors go to any of the smaller places like Rapid City and Deadwood. Though the old life that used to be Deadwood's—the glory of Calamity Jane and the grandeur of "Wild Bill" Hickok—and the dry of Mike Russell's saloon where Buffalo Bill used to take his swig—is gone, there is many a

COOLIDGE TO CONFER WITH ROSENWALD

To Get Report on Conditions and Suggestions for Economic Improvement.

By the Associated Press.
PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 18.—In the absence of Secretary of State Kellogg, who is a guest at White Pine Camp, to make an address at Plattsburgh, President Coolidge arranged to receive Julius Rosenberg, head of Sears Roebuck & Co., of Chicago.

Rosenwald was invited to the summer White House to report to Mr. Coolidge on business conditions and to make any suggestions he might have for improving the economic situation.

The President has conferred with several business leaders since he came to the Adirondacks, and it has been indicated that he would receive others before his return to Washington.

Secretary Kellogg planned to return from Plattsburgh, after the dedication ceremonies, as he had not completed his report to Mr. Coolidge on departmental matters.

Kellogg's report to the chief executive on the Mexican situation has not changed the government's policy on non-intervention in the domestic affairs of that republic.

It was stated at the executive offices yesterday, on behalf of the President, that neither diplomatic usage, treaty rights nor international law authorized the United States to intervene in foreign situations that did not involve the personal safety or property rights of American citizens.

Secretary Kellogg is expected to continue in office as secretary of state under President Coolidge. A published report that Kellogg planned to resign soon, not only brought a direct denial from the secretary but a statement on behalf of the President that the report was unfounded and he would regret to have the secretary's resignation.

The subject which has long interested President Coolidge, continues to receive his attention as the details of national highways, which are ultimately to cover the country are being worked out by the assistant secretaries of aviation in the commerce, navy and war departments. Although the government is to own the landing fields, license the pilots and supervise other details of the operation of commercial airways, it does not intend to take a permanent place in private aviation. The air mail lines now being run by the Post-office Department are to be let out to private companies as soon as the latter can guarantee a service equal to that now being rendered by the department.

Mayor Howe of Deadwood says it's true that men drink liquor in his town, that there are bootleggers about, that people play poker and things like that just as if there were no prohibition laws, but he was happy to say there were no saloons in the corners.

They try to do things differently in Rapid City, said George Williams, the City Prosecutor. And intoxicated men and persons caught with pints of liquor—and there are quite a few—are fined $29.75 and given the option of spending 30 days in jail or cleaning the streets and cutting the courthouse grass for half the time.

'Leave to Print'

Our English Cousins—

What They Drive,

What They Smoke,

The Flapper and the Bicycle.

LONDON, Aug. 4.

ONE of the first things to catch the eye of the visitor to London is the number and variety of the tiny automobiles on the streets. Piccadilly and the Strand swarm with motor vehicles beside which a Ford roadster is huge.

Some have four cylinders and four wheels, and some have less of such. The other day on Trafalgar Square the writer observed one which had a body about the size of a motorcycle side car. Possibly two persons could crowd into it. It had two wheels before and one behind. The hood was a total fraud, containing nothing save the driver's feet and the operating pedals. The motor, such as it was, was stuck on the front of what might have been the radiator if there had been one. It looked like an ordinary two-cylinder motor cycle engine.

It is safe to say that a majority of the passenger cars seen on the streets of London are smaller than Fords. Also, they are much lower, and of trimmer outline. The hoods are rather pointed, with rounded radiators. The writer took a ride in one of these tiny cars, and it reached a speed of 50 miles an hour, running without appreciable vibration. One gets an impression that the cars are exceedingly staunch and well made. Englishmen do not speak well of the Ford, and not many of them are in evidence. The criticism is made that they are uneconomical and crudely constructed, as compared with the small English cars. They certainly are less snappy in appearance.

The popularity of the little car here is attributed to several things. First, automobiles are far more costly, in comparison with their size, than in the United States. For another, petrol, or gasoline, is higher, and cars with low gas consumption are favored accordingly. For a third, license fees are enormous—high, as compared with those in the States and they are graded by horsepower. Consequently, London teams with cars of four and five horsepower. The term "road house" is really descriptive here.

BICYCLING is more general and bicycles more numerous than in America. All ages and classes of people ride them—anywhere. What could cause more amazement among the Sunday afternoon crowds on Kingshighway in St. Louis than to see a stylish fopper of 18 or 20 pedaling down the middle of the road, ringing his bell furiously? Yet the writer saw precisely that on Pall Mall Sunday afternoon and nobody seemed to think anything of it. Seemed to be enjoying herself, despite the difficulty of keeping her hat on.

THE social status of the motor cycle in England is something else for Americans to marvel at. To be sure, there are plenty of young men in St. Louis who like taking young women for a ride on the tandem seat, but the sport never seems to have engaged the fancy of high society. In England it is considered quite smart for a fashionable young blade to have his "mobike," nor do the haughty young ladies scorn to ride behind.

ST. LOUIS TRAVELERS GREETED IN MUNICH

Chamber of Commerce Party Entertained at Rathaus by Burgomeister.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch.

MUNICH, Bavaria, Aug. 18.—The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce party, which is touring Europe, has reached Germany and yesterday was entertained at the Rathaus here by Burgomeister Scharnagel.

President Schorr of the Munich Chamber of Commerce was the chief speaker. Dr. Oskar von Miller, friend of Thomas A. Edison, the American inventor, also spoke. W. B. Weisenburger responded for the St. Louis visitors.

Dr. R. Schluter of St. Louis was ceremoniously elected honorary burgomeister of Munich.

Greek-Rumanian Friendship Pact. By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Aug. 18.—A friendship pact between Greece and Rumania similar to one just signed between Greece and Yugoslavia, is now in prospect for the furtherance of peace in the Balkans, it was authoritatively stated today. It is expected that the agreement between Greece and Turkey, settling important political and economic matters, will be signed Saturday. The Government has stated that military provisions may later be added to the Greco-Yugo-Slav friendship treaty, which has still to be ratified by the respective Parliaments of the two countries.

Indeed, on a street in St. Andrews, Scotland, I saw a young woman riding one all by herself.

THERE is nothing more plentiful in the United States than free matches. On who, like the writer, has the misfortune to live in hotels a considerable part of the time, soon finds his pockets filled with matches that have been thrust on him by the cigar clerk, the bellboy, the waiters, the manager, the assistant manager and the chambermaid, and periodically has to empty them out. In London a match is a scarce article. There are none in the hotel rooms, and none are given away by the tobaccoists or restaurateurs. The matches one must purchase there—which is not difficult, because of the number of disabled war veterans selling them on the street corners.

HOWEVER, if one is a cigar smoker, and in modest circumstances, he will not need many matches in Great Britain. It is impossible to obtain a sizeable cigar, of good quality, for less than a shilling and sixpence, or about 34 cents. This is largely due to the enormous tax levied on cigars, which is but part and parcel of the heavy taxes which every Briton pays since the war. As a result, your Englishman has gone over a bag and baggage to the pipe. One sees more pipes at Piccadilly Circus in 10 minutes than he would see at Grand Olive in a week.

PAUL Y. ANDERSON.

KELLOGG ARGUES AGAINST BASING ARMS AGREEMENTS ON ECONOMIC RESOURCES

Secretary, in Speech at Plattsburg, Reviews American Policy—Says U. S. Wants Results.

By the Associated Press.
PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 18.—The Washington Government wants results in the shape of progressive international agreements to limit and ultimately reduce armaments, particularly naval armaments, Secretary Kellogg said here today in an address largely devoted to a review of American policy in connection with the Geneva preliminary arms limitation conference.

He denied that the Washington administration contemplates withdrawal from the Geneva discussion. On the contrary, he said, the Government would continue to work for the success of that effort to clear the way for a reduction in military burdens.

The occasion of the address was the unveiling of a monument here to Commodore Thomas Macdonough, who led American naval forces on the Great Lakes in the war of 1812.

Kellogg's review of American policy at Geneva was presented after a stay of several days at the summer White House at Paul Smiths, in conference with President Coolidge. He declared the time to be opportune to summarize what the American delegation at Geneva had been trying to accomplish. He began his summary with "no selfish interests to serve" at Geneva.

Regional Agreements.
"We have advocated the desirability of starting with regional agreements which would strike at the root of the problem by removing from a nation the fear of aggression from its immediate neighbors," he said. "By progressing from modest beginnings we are more likely to go forward than if all nations wait until some universal scheme (of arms reduction) is formulated."

"It seems almost an impossible task to draw up any plan which would be acceptable to all nations. Nor is this essential to progress."

"It is difficult to see the relation of the land armaments of the East to those of Western Europe or those of North and South America. Thus it seems an unnecessary as well as a futile task to attempt to devise an all-embracing formula for the reduction of the armaments of the world. It is rather the action under conditions are everywhere ideal we would have to abandon hope of any arms limitation for some time to come."

American Army No Menace.
The American Army is so small, Kellogg said, that it never has been a threat to other Powers on either side of the world who desired to reduce or limit their own forces. Because of this, he added, American interest was less immediate in the land armaments question, although American participation in limitation of naval armaments was more direct.

"Here (in naval armaments) it is obvious that regional agreements cannot be so effectively employed," he continued. "It is rather the task of the principal naval Powers of the world to take the lead in the endeavor to find means to do away with future competition in naval construction."

"I reiterate that the United States would be glad to co-operate with other naval Powers in extending the principles of the Washington treaty to other classes of naval vessels, and I earnestly hope that such a measure may soon be practicable. And let me say here that what we desire is results. We are now working to make the Geneva pact a success in so far as our contribution to the work can make it so, and we hope that progress towards naval limitation, as well as toward limitation of land armaments, will result from these discussions."

The Secretary referred to the indicated desire of "certain of the Powers at Geneva" to lump land, sea and air armaments together as "an inseparable whole," on the theory that reduction in any one branch must be contingent upon reductions in the other two. While the United States recognized "a certain interdependence" of this kind in some cases, he said, it felt that "every effort should be made to simplify and not to complicate" the limitation problem, and believed the success of the Washington conference was due to the fact that it had "selected and attacked concrete problems and worked out an agreement which is entirely practical."

"We believe that it will eventually be found that naval armaments should form the subject of agreements between the naval Powers principally interested," he added.

In denying all published suggestions that the American delegation might withdraw from Geneva, Kellogg declared that it would remain "as long as there is any prospect of accomplishing anything toward the great object of the limitation and reduction of armaments."

There has been divergent views on intricate questions at Geneva, he said, citing the fact that certain powers appeared to favor a scale of armaments for limitation purposes on economic resources of a country, on the ground that the possession of such resources would justify the reduction of peace time armaments of a state. Such a theory, he said, might deprive the United States of any army and navy at all because of its great natural resources.

"I believe that the only practical basis for the reduction or limitation of armaments is through dealing with military forces and visible tangible armaments," said he. "What possible criterion can we find if we undertake to base a limitation of armament agreement upon the economic resources of every country in the world?"

The Secretary reiterated fully the American objection all-day voiced at Geneva to any suggestion for an international supervision of armament reduction.

"So far as the United States is concerned, the execution of any international agreement for limitation of armaments must depend upon good faith and respect for treaties," he said. "We will not accept supervision of any outside body or be subject to inspection or control by foreign agencies."

"Of course, if other Powers desire to make such a regime of international control applicable to themselves, it would be no concern of ours."

The American delegation at Geneva, the Secretary said, had not sought to limit discussion there in any way because it was there "to help and not to obstruct."

"We do not bridge the time consumed in deliberation," he said. "We desire sincerely that every practicable path be explored before the commission proceeds with its work of drawing up the agenda for subsequent conferences where more definite measures of disarmament are to be considered."

"We believe strongly, however, that eventually, after exhaustive discussion of other proposals, the soundness of the views which our representatives at Geneva have put forward will be recognized. However much a general universal scheme may attract the thoughts of mankind, we fear that a scheme acceptable to all nations cannot be achieved, and that if we wait for its elaboration and adoption we may defer indefinitely any hope of disarmament."

GERMANS DOMINATE PEACE PARLEY OF 5000 YOUTHS

By the Associated Press.

BOISSY LA RIVIERE, France, Aug. 18.—The sixth international Democratic Peace conference opened its informal sessions today with 5000 youthful delegates, representing 23 countries, in attendance.

The conference, being held in the wooded grounds of the Chateau Bierville, 40 miles from Paris, has as its purpose the bringing together of the youth of different nations to create mutual understanding and to work for world peace.

The German delegates have definitely begun to dominate the conference. A large proportion of the women delegates have discarded stockings and a few of them have even dispensed with shoes. A majority, however, find light sandals necessary.

Envoy to U. S. Says Coolidge 'Talked of Withdrawal.'

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1926.

CEBU, Province of Cebu, Philippine Islands, Aug. 18.—Senator Sergio Osmena, recently returned legislative envoy to Washington, caused excitement today at a luncheon given by Cebu business men in honor of Col. Carmi A. Thompson, who is investigating conditions in the Philippines as the personal representative of President Coolidge.

Osmena quoted President Coolidge as saying to him recently: "We are going to withdraw from the Philippines." This is out of keeping with what Americans here believe to be the President's attitude. Osmena added that the inference he drew from the President's remarks was that the Thompson mission intended to make the islands as prosperous as possible when the time for separation comes.

Thompson, in his address, made no reply to Osmena's statement.

U. R. Engineer Planned Grass Strips.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A NUMBER of the members of this association have written me regarding the articles and notices that have appeared in the St. Louis newspapers about the proposed United Railways plan for Olive street between Twelfth street and Channing avenue.

In all the notices you refer to the "parkway plan." The men who write these articles are surely not familiar with the proposed plan, for they do not use the term "parkway." It is not a "parkway" plan, nor do the sponsors of it claim it to be. It is simply a 24-foot strip with a curb on each side, raised about 8 inches above the roadway level through which the street cars run. It is simply a "private right-of-way." Your articles give the impression that this strip will contain grass, trees, shrubs and flowers, and any time you would want a few minutes in the country, close to nature, all you would have to do would be to step out of your office, cross the 26-foot street and the welcoming song of the birds and the sweet gentle breezes from some woody dell will greet you. ### Des Peres Nuisance in the Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I AM making their preparations for a fine exposition in Forest Park in September has the Chamber of Commerce arranged to do away with the vile odors from the malodorous River des Peres or is this foul stream to be one of our exhibits? Sunday, with the park full of people listening to the band concert or enjoying themselves otherwise in our fine park, the odors from this polluted stream were everywhere in evidence. Surely something could be done to do away with this nuisance, if only temporarily. Could not the stream be flushed or chemically treated in some way until the river is permanently covered up when the long delayed improvement of it will at last take place? The Municipal Theater management got rid of the nasty odors in their part of the park this summer and a little expense on the part of the city would no doubt put this troublesome, vile stream in much more sanitary condition. The people are using the park more all the time and their pleasure ought not to be spoiled by this public nuisance. Very truly yours,

A. E. WHITAKER,
4134 Lindell boulevard.

Save Franklin School.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
HOW true are the words of "A Loyal Franklin Pupil," when he says it is a treasure. To me it is more, it is a part of me and I ask why must it go? Our Franklin? Surely there are older buildings in the vicinity. What is to become of our Alumni Association? We all who are loyal members could not bear to give it up.

I would as soon lose a dear friend as to lose Franklin as my grandmother, mother and father have been pupils and I entered the new building a year after its completion. Many happy memories come back to my mind as I write—graduations, entertainments when Mr. C. F. Knox (now deceased) and Miss Merriman and the dear teachers who did so much to instill the high ideals for which it stands would speak to us, we little realized that maybe some day Franklin would be no more.

Come to the front, all you alumni members and fight for our dear Franklin.
MRS. ROSE M. WEBB.

Negro Children Need Playground.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
SOME time ago the Post-Dispatch printed some statistics regarding St. Louis' high homicide record, which was attributed to the large Negro population here. While on this point you will not consider the poor housing conditions of the colored people of St. Louis are handicapped with in certain sections of St. Louis. For instance take the district around the Union Station, which is largely occupied by colored people. What provision is made for their comfort and health? Absolutely none. Colored children roam this territory like nomads. They have no parks or playgrounds, despite the fact that provision was made under the bond issue of two years ago for a playground at Twenty-third street and Clark avenue. What has become of this project? Mayor Miller professes to be the friend of the colored race. He was elected on that platform. Here is a chance for him and his associates to do something constructive for the Negro. Give the young Negro a chance and watch the homicide percentage drop.

OUR HEADLESS FOREIGN POLICY.

It is reported from the summer White House that conferences which the President is about to hold with some of his advisers on foreign relations "may lead to the necessary shifting of policies to meet conditions that have changed so rapidly in the last few months." Whether or not the correspondent, a friendly observer, intended it, there's a world of meaning in that line.

"A necessary shifting of policies to meet conditions"—does not that describe to a "t" the habitual attitude of the Harding and Coolidge regimes toward our foreign relations? The "necessity" has been that of trimming the sails of the administration to catch whatever popular gust might be blowing. Even the haters of Woodrow Wilson will admit that he had a foreign policy and stuck to it; he went down with his ship. Where Wilson had a vision of world co-operation, his successors have kept their eyes glued on the expediency of the moment. Harding, when a candidate, held out to the Republican friends of the Wilson ideal the tentative promise of an "association of nations"—the League under another name—but after his election the "association" project went to the junk heap. The Coolidge administration announces one policy with respect to the war debt—that of requiring all the debtor nations to settle on the British terms—and follows quite a different policy. In the same breath in which it tells Europe that we are a Santa Claus it tells the American taxpayer that we are a hard-fisted creditor.

Such is our foreign "policy." Its only discernible guiding principle is that of strengthening the fences of the party in power. A congressional election, the result of which will have an important bearing on the presidential election of 1928, is impending. And so Mr. Coolidge is going to meet with his advisers to see what changes in policy may be necessary. We are reminded of the suggestion made by a Washington wag when the newspapers were considering names for the President's hobby horse. "Since it has neither head nor tail," he said, "it ought to be called Foreign Policy."

BE A FRIEND OF THE FORESTS.

Missourians are justly proud of their Ozark Mountain region, with its forest growth. Without the trees it is needless to say that the glory and usefulness of the Ozarks would be gone.

But, asks the national lumbermen's organization, with the picturesque name of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo, "How long will the Ozarks last at this rate?" following with the statement that in 1924 Missouri had 2215 forest fires; 2152 of them were man-made, 1167 were incendiary, brush-burning caused 315, neglected campfires caused 207, careless smokers caused 171, railroads caused 91, lightning caused 63, lumbering caused 29, miscellaneous causes, 172; 411,561 acres were burned over; $362,150 damage was done.

The lumbermen make a special appeal to campers, hunters, fishermen, motorists or "just plain lovers of the outdoors" to pledge themselves to be friends of the forests, and to do everything possible to prevent their destruction, especially by fires. But the appeal must also be made to the people most interested, who live in the Ozark regions, and who too often fire the woods to get rid of leaves and provide a meager pasture, although this robs the soil of fertility and destroys multitudes of young trees. In the end, it creates bare hills, almost unfit for any sort of growth and unable to protect the rainfall—one of the principal benefits of wooded regions.

The next State Legislature should see to it that the new office of State Forester is adequately financed with a sufficient appropriation to enable the department to protect and improve the State's forests. This important public duty should not be left to individual or corporate effort. It is time that Missouri herself should become a friend of the forests.

THE TRIAL OF MINOR TRAFFIC OFFENSES.

Nearly every city in the United States has an expeditious way of handling the trial of minor traffic violations. St. Louis has not. Cases of parking without lights, parking in restricted areas, etc., are assigned to the regular police court docket. In nearly every case of this kind the plea is guilty and a small uniform fine is assessed. Because of the nature of the offense and the purely formal character of the proceeding, these cases should be handled separately.

Most men who are summoned to the police court for minor traffic violations are business men or men employed in offices. They are now required to sit in court for an indefinite length of time while the morning routine of the court proceeds. They lose time from their work, besides impeding the court in the trial of general cases. Since St. Louis lacks a traffic court, it should at least provide some means of permitting those who wish to plead guilty to minor traffic offenses to pay the charge and get to work without delay.

THE ST. LOUIS-CHICAGO AIR MAIL.

With backers of the St. Paul-Chicago air mail route petitioning the Postoffice Department for leave to discontinue service because the line is operating at a heavy loss, St. Louis should congratulate itself that its own postal air route is working on a solid basis. The diversified qualities of daring, precision, business acumen and flying skill which have gone into the upbuilding of the St. Louis line were set forth in the Sunday Post-Dispatch by William F. Allen, a staff correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, who made a trip over the airway to Chicago and was amazed at the businesslike way in which the mail is handled. It is these qualities that have built up the service of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, contract carrier, until now, after four months of service, the line is paying a profit.

Yesterday an engineer of the Department of Commerce left Lambert-St. Louis Field for a survey of the line, during which he will select locations for nine emergency landing fields and 25 revolving beacons, the guides of the pilots during the fall and winter night flying. His work will be completed within a week or two and the fields and lights will be ready in time for the early dusk of fall. That will be the final step in making the St. Louis-Chicago route a permanent institution, suited for flying in any weather, by day or by night, a condition that will not only help operation of the mail service but will also give a dependable route for the commercial passenger companies which are sure to spring up in the next 10 years. All of this is dependent upon a continuing and increasing public support.

OUR MAIL ORDER GOVERNMENT.

A striking example of the mail order idea of Government is contained in a recent circular issued by the Bureau of Standards of Mr. Hoover's Commerce Department. It discloses that the Federal Government has gone into the business of teaching watchmaking. What is actually a correspondence school has been established, and any one who wants to know how to take a watch apart and put it together again need only apply and expert instruction is forthcoming. Those who pass the tests provided get diplomas as "certified watchmakers." Those who show lesser proficiency are designated as "junior watchmakers." A thousand students are now enrolled and 670 have already been graduated.

This is one of numerous strange activities that have blossomed forth in the Commerce Department under the fatherly direction of Mr. Hoover. Mr. Hoover did not originate the idea of extending Federal activity to every nook and cranny in the private life of citizens, but he is one of the greatest disciples of the movement. We do not doubt that the pupils in the Government's watchmaking school are very grateful for the free instruction. But what will Mr. Hoover do for thousands of others who would like free courses in plastering, plumbing, steeple-jacking, window cleaning and all the other activities of the republic?

It has come to pass that the Government's services are almost as inclusive as the number of things that may be bought at a great mail order house. Information and advice on all subjects from how to cook a meal to how to change a tire may be had by writing to the proper department—and the proper department is usually Mr. Hoover's Commerce Department. Not long ago we discovered that the Federal Government employs an expert wolf hunter who is subject to call of farmers who think their stock is being disturbed by the varmints.

We respectfully submit that the Government has no business taxing all the people to teach watchmaking to a few. It was not established at Washington as a free notions counter. Little wonder it costs between three and four billions a year to operate it when it engages in thousands of activities which cannot, by any stretch of the imagination, be regarded as within the legitimate scope of Governmental activity.

The Kiel-Koeln-Schmoll faction is not only unpronounceable, but unbeatable.

JOURNALISM IN ILLINOIS.

There are, of course, apologists for what happened in the Illinois primaries, but it is hard to believe that any of them are newspapers. If newspapers consent to the mere selling of public office to the highest bidder, then there will be no more heard of the purity of the ballot.

We are sorry to say that there is no intimation of this in the attitude of the Peoria Star toward the senatorial investigation. The Star does not consider, as most of us do, that a great public service was rendered. It thinks something ought to be done to head off a committee like that. Beam from the Star:

Jim Reed predicts that some of the witnesses in his burlesque show will go to jail. It might be a good idea to send the committee with them and continue the performance behind the bars. It would be a change at least and no more ridiculous than this is now.

Thomas Jefferson said: "No government ought to be without censors, and where the press is free none ever will be." If there are many newspapers in Illinois like the Star, it is not hard to understand the corruption of government over there. It needs censors.

The only thing the British haven't accused Gertrude Ederle of doing in her channel swim is using water wings.

WHAT IT ALL MEANS.

Mr. Valentino passed a fairly comfortable night. There is no change to cause undue anxiety. Temperature 101.2, pulse 100, respiration 22.

More flowers come to the hospital than can be distributed through the institution. More telephone calls come in than can be answered. A nation's sympathy fairly hovers over the patient's bed—something ordinarily reserved for our Presidents.

There can be only one explanation. Valentino is not the outstanding Adonis one might imagine from all this. He has his peers, if not his superiors, in many beauty. He is not the only handsome dog among us.

But he was the first sheik. He became the symbol of desert romance with its masterful men and dashing steeds, and the harem complex among women did the rest. That is why we have bulletins from his bedside and the hospital homage usually paid to royalty. How sadly did the Chicago writer misjudge this phenomenon when he associated it with cosmetics! Valentino wanted to kill him, and what is to be done about faulty thinking like that? It all belongs to the realm of romance. . . . moonlight . . . the bulb singing . . . and masterful men.

The women are unhappy. They want masters, and we give them mates.

Australia's new capital is dry territory, but why did they name it Canberra?

IT'S THE WEATHER.

Do your gladness spirits sag?
It's the weather.
Clothes hang on you like a rag?
It's the weather.
For the torrid summer's here.
'Tis the worst month of the year.
In a chair you limply sag?
It's the weather.

Dampsey signs with Tex to fight?
It's the weather.
Bathing beauties seem a fright?
It's the weather.
For the silly season's come.
And the mercury's up some.
Beastly day and sleepless night?
It's the weather.

News you read give you a pain?
It's the weather.
Make you doubt if all are sane?
It's the weather.
When we strike a torrid wave
Some few fools are bound to rave;
Is my explanation plain?
It's the weather.

When the snow begins to fly.
It's the weather.
That won't be till by and by.
It's the weather.
Winter's snow or summer's heat,
August sun—December sleat;
If we freeze or if we fry.
It's the weather.

ENFORCEMENT SUGGESTION.

In our opinion, the Chicago Federal prohibition director who is trying to stop the sale of home brew apparatus has either been affected by the current silly season or it is an obvious dodge on his part to cover up failure to stop bootlegging. Any kitchen utensil may be used for distilling. Include kettles in the ukase, or recall it. Why not try governmental murder of all of us—then enforcement would care for itself.

This excitement over what Mr. Eddy of the Y. M. C. A. did or did not say in Russia is childish. Diplomats and fishermen tell bigger and better ones every day. Does the fact that we refuse to recognize Russia prevent a man from telling the Russians a few polite, polished, poetic and carefully thought out whoppers?

A Chicago millionaire has given $5,000,000 toward a museum having exhibits of "the ingenuity of man." Are we asking too much when we request that home brew apparatus be placed in the collection of exhibits?

Valentino's life is insured for a million dollars, payable to his producer, which is our idea of a man's feeling that he should pray for something, but knowing that what he asks for will be the wrong thing.

The refusal of a woman to tell her age is not necessarily "a Victorian foible." It may indicate merely the well-known feminine tendency to prefer fiction.

Statistical Note.

Senator Borah says that under the proposed New York referendum we would have 48 different standards and kinds of liquor in the United States. This would be exactly God only knows how many fewer standards and kinds than we have at present.

IT CAN BE DONE! BAH!!!

Inspirational books have always caused us to grit our teeth. Conspicuously posted poems on "Pep" and "It couldn't be done, but he did it" have made us quit a man's office. The obvious desire of the world to be inspired has driven us perilously close to suicide. For a long time, we were in the minority of one in favor of getting work done quickly and quietly without the aid of five "Do it now" signs, seven brass bands, eight slide trombones, Dr. Frank Crane and Henry Van Dyke. Our army announces recruits. We'll bet that when Miss Ederle swam the Channel, the thought that she would inspire future generations spurred her on as much as the promise of roadster or truck or whatever it was. "It can be done" she must have repeated to herself. "I'll be as famous as Casablanca." But she will not be! Hurray! Two hurrahs, so cynically happy do we feel. From the British and the French we learn that the tugs helped her, the tide helped her, the weather helped her. For all we know, the Atlantic fleet helped her. Maybe she flew across. The Channel may have dried up, and she walked across. Maybe there is no Channel. We have not seen it in eight years, and we did not see her swim it. We have never seen Miss Ederle; maybe she is one of these myths. We would not detract from the lady's accomplishment, but in the face of the British, "It can't be done" and the French "C'est impossible; elle n'a fait rien" we know the inspirational poets will shut up; we are assured that we will never be told in print, "Gertrude Ederle swam the Channel; you CAN take a cold bath every day." Hurray!

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THEN AND NOW SEEMS TO BE MAINLY IN THE CALENDAR.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

MISSOURI'S SENATORS.

From the Springfield (Mo.) Leader.
It seems quite certain Harry B. Hawes will be elected United States Senator from Missouri. He is senatorial timber and will rank along with Vest, Cockrell, Reed and Stone, Missouri's greatest Senators since Benton. Hawes is not a great orator but will be a great Senator, somewhat like Cockrell who did not rank as a great orator but as a Senator was a power in Washington. Reed and Stone made enemies but their ability and influence has always been recognized. With Reed and Hawes, Missouri will be very much on the map. Hawes being for sometime, a member of the House already in close touch with all legislation and as he is a hard worker and always interested in national affairs he is certain to make a mark at the capital. He is free of fads, practical and knows what to do. In a crisis his counsel will be sought by whoever happens to be President. He is patriotic and went to the front in the war in defense of his country.

Hawes comprehends the great Chicago Government, understanding common sense, shrewdness, tact, experience as a legislator includes both the legislature of Missouri and Congress itself. He is experienced in lawmaking, knows what can be done and what can't. With Reed and Hawes, Missouri will be a State to be reckoned with.

A WARNING TO MOTORISTS.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.
STATISTICS on automobile killings in Rhode Island last month emphasize more strongly than ever that it is among the aged and the very young that the motor car collects most of its toll of human life. Of the 13 persons slain here in July, six were children under 13 years of age and four were adults of more than 60. Seventy-seven per cent, then, of the lives taken were those of persons of one age extreme or the other. Headlessness among the young and a dimming of the senses of sight and hearing in the old may be stated as the causes. The figures should warn motorists anew of the necessity for exercising the greatest care when operating machines in the vicinity of members of either of these age groups.

A MUSSOLINI DEFEAT.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.
MUSSOLINI has decided to cast off the shackles of Paris fashions for women. He will have the women of Fascist Italy garbed in costumes as distinctive as the ancient "palla" of the Roman matrons. Mussolini is a very powerful man. He has a considerable portion of masculine Italy in black shirts. But he is becoming restless. He has challenged a power which hitherto has laughed at all challenges—the hegemony of Paris in the world of women's fashions. History is strewn with the bones of strong men who have tried to displace the woman the wherewithal they shall be clothed. History has known many conquerors, but Mussolini is rushing in where others either feared to tread or met their doom.

MODERN OPERA-GOERS DEMAND SPECTACLE

Music Used to Be Enough, but Not Nowadays, Says Veteran Stage Man.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—A quartet of a century devoted to giving grand opera the variety of background which John Ambrose Bredon, master of hydraulic apparatus, has put on the stage of the Auditorium, said today that the day of "vast changes" have been wrought in the past 70 years of the art. "Forty years ago the opera-goer was satisfied with music," he said, "but today it demands sight as well as sound, a spectacle with music, and that the singers be actors and actresses as well."

"When I first heard 'The Lady of Lyons,' 50 years ago, one of the leading characters came on stage with his sheet music in his hand. That would not be tolerated today. "Even rapturous singing is not enough. The public demands scenery, scenery with singing. Demand every with a job. I've heard operas here, but always from the stage with my hydraulic apparatus, trapezoids and pits. "There is no use singing for the great artists of long ago, for the great artists of today are just as great as the artists of long ago, and the moral status of those connected with opera has immeasurably improved through the years."

Lately some of the spectacular use of hydraulic rams, mostly German operas, as the ascension of Faust, have been superseded by the use of lights. Musicians will ascend to heaven more effectively under the play of electric lights.

LADY STRATHCONA DEAD IN LONDON IN HER 73RD YEAR

Daughter of ex-High Commissioner of Canada—Once Tried to Save Banking Firm.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—Lady Strathcona and Mount Royal, daughter of the late Lord Strathcona, former high commissioner of Canada, died today in her seventh year.

Lady Strathcona was Mrs. Margaret C. Howard, receiving her title on the death of her father, Lord Strathcona, in 1914. Her father, Donald Alexander Smith, related to the Baronetcy, played a prominent part in Canada many years during the last century, becoming a member of Parliament in the Canadian House of Commons and later being appointed high commissioner in Britain for the dominion. In 1922, Lady Strathcona gave $100,000 ($500,000) to James McGrigor in an effort to save the banking firm of Charles R. McGrigor, which was forced to close its doors. The London press said that Lady Strathcona tried to save the bank in memory of the friendship of James' father for her own father when the latter was a Scottish emigrant to Canada, where made his immense fortune.

GERTRUDE EDERLE REACHES PARIS AND STARTS SHOPPING

Paris Up All Night on Train Arrivals.
By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Aug. 18.—Gertrude Ederle, the channel swimmer, arrived here today from Germany, after sitting up all night on the train because the sleeper was filled. Miss Ederle had barely registered at her hotel when she set out on a shopping tour. Having acquired a prominence almost comparable to that of motion picture stars, she found it advisable to take an official spokesman to act as buffer between herself and persistent reporters.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Germany, Aug. 18.—Gertrude Ederle's departure here last evening evoked scenes of jubilation among her grandmothers, who she had been visiting, exclaiming that she would return next year at cherry blossom time. A crowd of well-wishers left the hotel to see her off. The automobile stopped at Kirchstrasse, where most of Miss Ederle's relatives live, to permit a leave-taking. At Stuttgart, delegations of athletic clubs and a large crowd awaited her. She was greeted by an enthusiastic ovation as her train pulled out for Paris.

JUDGE GRAVES BETTER HE HAS THROAT ALLMENT AND HAS UNDERWENT OPERATION.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 18.—Judge W. V. Graves, Justice of the Missouri Supreme Court who has been seriously ill at his home here, proved, physicians said today, that the throat ailment was not a tumor. The jurist was operated upon Saturday. Saturday congestion developed in his throat and lung and for a time it was feared pneumonia might result. He has shown steady improvement since the operation, and all danger of pneumonia has passed.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MISS HELEN CARTON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benoit, Cartons of 4434 Westminster place, has returned from a visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Julia Hurt of Kansas City. Miss Carton, who attended the Holton Arms School in Washington, D. C., last year, will not return East, but will be a student at Miss Evans' School in St. Louis. Her sister, Miss Elizabeth Carton, will depart today for Atlantic City and New York, and after a visit there will go to Lorton, Long Island, to attend school this winter.

Mrs. E. B. Finley of Webster Groves and daughter, Miss Nell, who have been passing the summer at Gallagher, W. Va., will return home the first part of September.

Mrs. S. M. Williamson and children of Webster Groves are passing the late summer at Lake Geneva, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Matthews of 427 Westgate avenue and their daughter, Miss Carolyn, have returned from Chicago, where they were at Edgewater Beach Hotel for a fortnight.

Miss Mary Frances Dickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dickson of 414 Union boulevard, will depart Thursday for Hyannisport, Mass., to be the guest of Miss Marceline Reyburn at the summer home of Miss Reyburn's mother, Mrs. Charles Fletcher Sparks. Miss Dickson will be away about a month.

RAIN HALTS PERFORMANCES AT OPERA AND FASHION SHOW

Checks Given Audiences Will Be Honored Any Time This Week at Both Shows.

Although there was only a trace of rainfall downtown last night, barely enough to be noted by the Weather Bureau, the fall was a such volume in the middle western part of the city as to stop the outdoor performances at the Municipal Opera and the Garden Theater. About 3000 persons had assembled for last night's performance of the fashion pageant at the Garden Theater, and were given rain checks when there appeared no prospect of an abatement of steady rainfall that started about 8 o'clock. The fashion show rain checks, it was announced, will be honored at any performance this week or at a special performance to be given Saturday night. Similarly, rain checks of the Municipal Opera will be honored at other performances this week.

Rainfall in St. Louis County was heaviest in the southern part, but registered only a trace in the far western stretches and in the northern part. It was not so general or plentiful as to help the farmers and truck gardeners, whose losses from the drought this year may reach $1,000,000, according to J. R. Hansen, County Agricultural Agent. Hansen added that the rainfall last night did little more than settle dust in parts of the county where farmers and gardeners needed it most.

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI REGISTRATION STARTS SEPT. 13

First Classes of Fall Term Will Meet in Morning, Three Days Later.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 18.—The first class of the University of Missouri fall term will be held Friday, Sept. 17, at 8 a. m., according to an announcement made today at the office of the president. Registration will start Sept. 13 and will continue until the beginning of classes.

Freshmen will be allowed to register two days before the upper classmen. A special program has been planned for the freshmen by the student council, including a dance, convocation and a "get acquainted" program.

Registration for upper classmen will take place Sept. 15 and 16. The opening convocation period of the university will be Sept. 17. Entrance examinations will be given Tuesday, Sept. 14.

The first term of the short course in agriculture will start Nov. 1, according to Dean F. B. Mumford of the College of Agriculture. The second term short course will start Jan. 3 and close Feb. 26 with the customary banquet and awarding of certificates.

KANSAS HAS CORNET GIVEN TO HIM BY QUEEN VICTORIA

It Was Presented on His Return to America After Service With Army Band.

By the Associated Press. McPHERSON, Kan., Aug. 18.—In a comfortable Kansas home here reposes a silver cornet, the gift of Queen Victoria to Harry Hapgood. Only one other like presentation was made by Queen Victoria during her reign and that was to Bugler Dunn, Boer war hero, to whom she gave a silver bugle.

Hapgood, of a musical family, began playing a cornet at the age of 8, was a member of the famous Dispatch band of Kansas, served with several circuses, and in 1891 went to Morrison, Wales, where he joined the Grand Victorian army band.

The Grenadier Guards, to which the band was attached, had its barracks in St. James Palace in London and the bandmen came in contact with members of the Queen's household. Queen Victoria took a personal interest in her musicians as did the Duke of York, now King George V.

When Hapgood, after seven years of service, returned to America, the Queen, at a public gathering, presented him with a silver cornet with a suitable inscription.

MRS. ANNIE FOOTITT IS DEAD

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Annie Footitt is dead and will be missed by many of the English speaking visitors to Paris. Mrs. Footitt was the widow of the famous English clown, Footitt, who with his colored partner, Chocolat, entertained several generations of Parisians, notably at the Nouveau Cirque.

When he retired from the circus ring, he and his wife opened a restaurant just off the Avenue of the Champs Elysees, which became very popular.

WOMAN PH. D. IN THE MOVIES

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Christa Tordy, Germany's girl prodigy who at the age of 12 has just been graduated from the University of Breslau with a Ph. D. degree, has gone into the movies.

of her age to hold three degrees, one each from Leipzig, Munich and Breslau. Her Ph. D. thesis on Baroque sculpture attracted wide attention. She is an excellent horsewoman, drives her own automobile and is working on her first book, a history of late Eighteenth Century literature. She signed a screen contract, she said, because she likes the movies.

Printers Give Memento to Ochs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Fifty years ago Adolph S. Ochs was setting type at Knoxville, Tenn. Now he owns the New York Times, which has an annual gross income of $35,000,000. As a memento of his thirtieth anniversary as publisher, his composing room has just presented an engraved silver printer's stick to him.

Early American Bedroom Suites Reduced

Berkey & Gay have imparted to this Suite the true spirit of our colonial ancestors. Its charm lies in the simplicity and grace of its outline and the rigor and restraint of its treatment. It possesses that unusual beauty we always find in perfect proportion unadorned. The Suite is made of combination mahogany and gumwood developed to a rich antique finish. The pieces are priced separately as follows:

46-inch dresser .....$62.50 42-inch dressing table .....$43.50
34-inch chest .....$53.00 Twin or full size bed .....$32.00

Chair, rocker, bench and nightstand are also available at special prices.

10-Piece English Tudor Suite

The Tudor influence is subtly embodied in the design of this unusually fine group. It is certainly a most generously proportioned and beautifully finished Suite. Note the exquisite figure on the fronts of the pieces and the wealth of carving and restrained ornamentation. Besides the pieces shown there are four more side chairs and an armchair. A wonderful value at the special price of.....

SUIT TO SET ASIDE FLOUR MILL MERGER

Stockholder Attacks Combine
of Valier & Spies of St. Louis With Kansas City Company.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Aug. 18.—A suit to set aside the sale of the Kansas Flour Mills Co. to Spencer, Trask & Co., investment bankers and brokers, of New York, was filed in Jackson County Circuit Court yesterday by Roger Rankin, of Kansas City, owner of 583 shares in the flour mill company. Rankin alleges that the price $2,500,000 is insufficient and that he and his brothers, Earl Rankin, New York City, and Capt. George Rankin, New Jersey, who also owns 583 shares of common stock in the company, protested against the sale, but that the majority of the stockholders adopted a resolution to sell. The petition stated that Thad L. Hoffman, Kansas City, president of the company, and Spencer, Trask & Co., organized the Flour Mills of America, Inc., taking in the Valier & Spies Milling Co., St. Louis. Thad L. Hoffman is president of the new firm.

The Kansas Flour Mills Company's assets in November, 1925, included mills in several States and 150 elevators in the west central States, the petition states. At time of organization of the Flour Mills of America, Inc., it was stated that most of these properties were included in the merger. The Flour Mills of America, Inc., was formed last April by the merger of the Valier & Spies Co. of St. Louis, and the Kansas Flour Mills Co. of Wichita, Kan., with Spencer, Trask & Co., New York bankers, having a prominent part in the consolidation. The two big milling companies have combined assets of about $15,000,000. The consolidation embraced 15 mills and 120 grain elevators in St. Louis, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma and Minnesota. It was one of the largest combinations of flour milling interests ever brought under one head.

BOY, 16; ADRIFT AT SEA IN SMALL BOAT

He Spends Night Baling Out Craft—Rescued After 12 Hours.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 18.—Gordon White, 16-year-old son of Wilfred L. White, Boston compass manufacturer, was rescued off Beach Haven yesterday. He had been adrift in a small boat for more than 12 hours.

The youth was one of a party of 13 students of Tabor Academy, Meriden, Mass., who came to the resort Monday night on the cruiser, Tabor Boy, a 90-footer. When the craft was within 200 feet of Brigantine Beach, a sudden squall broke and a small tender, with young White aboard, snapped a tow line and drifted out to sea.

White was located after being picked up by the "Pequod," a fishing craft that found the youth floating in the water-filled dinghy 12 miles east of Beach Haven.

Tender Breaks Loose.
"It was about 6 p. m. Monday when I got into the dinghy or tender to bail," said White, relating his story. "While I bailed I tried to discover where the water was leaking in. Afterwards I found three leaks. While I was looking around the bottom there came a sudden jerk, the dinghy reeled round, and the sea caught her broadside. The tow rope had broken."

"That was between the first and second channel buoys. Capt. Weeks yelled something from the cruiser. I was too far away to hear. The wind swallowed his words, but I thought I caught 'Stick tight,' and saw his arms wave. The cruiser was too big to turn around in the channel."

"I knew they'd have to go in before they could help me. But I didn't worry much. I thought it would be only a matter of minutes, but nobody came. I bailed. I kept bailing all the time. I found I couldn't stop the three leaks."

"I couldn't get the engine to work. She was pretty wet too. Once I stood up in the boat to look over the tops of the waves. Just then a big one caught me and I went sailing out head first like a man thrown from a saddle. I felt it was the end. I just struck out blindly. The next thing I knew a big wave hit me the other way and I was kicked back into the swamped boat."

"By bailing with all my might I was able to get things righted. Then I prayed. I've never been religious but I prayed hard. I remembered the Bible story about the storm subsiding when Christ commanded. I seemed to feel better afterwards."

Rescued by Schooner.

"Pretty soon light began to come. The whole ocean seemed to be around me. I might just as well have been in mid-Atlantic for all I could see. No land at all. Later on, as day came on, I saw several vessels in the distance. That cheered me a lot. About 6 a. m. I heard a hail and looked and there was a fishing schooner (the Pequod, a few hundred feet off. I shouted and waved and they came over and took me off the dinghy."

The fishing captain not only took up White. He took up the dinghy and put it on board.

The boy was fed and clothed with some odd garments of the crew. He pattered with that dead engine until shortly past noon, when Neal sighted Coast Guard Patrol No. 113 several miles to windward. The Pequod was 12 miles off Beach Haven, 22 miles east of Atlantic City. About 1:30 p. m. the Pequod lowered the dinghy and White sat in her, adrift, until the patrol boat came alongside, and took him off, his boat in tow.

COY CHAPERONES IN LONDON

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—A feature of this season's London entertainments and functions has been an increase in the number of chaperones. The chaperones have not been the old fashioned type but almost as youthful and coy as the young women whom they keep under their wings.

Often it has been necessary to provide increased accommodation at some of the larger affairs because the young people have brought along a chaperone at the last moment.

How many people actually have halitosis (unpleasant breath)?

Read what dentists
have to say about this:

EVERY reader of Listerine advertising knows about halitosis (unpleasant breath), that insidious thing that not even your best friends discuss with you.

Yet there are still a few "doubting Thomas" folks who think halitosis is only a state of mind.

Out of simple curiosity we put this question up to a carefully selected list of dentists—1000 of them—and in a letter asked them the following:

Do you ever use Listerine, in self-defense, in the mouth of a patient troubled with halitosis, unpleasant breath?

Please answer if you use it this way (1)
Frequently, (2) Occasionally, or (3) Never.

Four hundred and forty replied as follows:

83% said "Frequently"
15% said "Occasionally"
Only 2% said "Never."

Now, what human being meets halitosis at closer range, face to face, than the dentist? And who would be a better judge of this condition—and how to combat it—than the dentist?—Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis,

GEORGE T. TANSEY ESTATE IS INVENTORIED AT $23,484

Last Includes Railroad Stock of Unknown Value and 1000 Worthless Mine Shares.

The estate of George T. Tansey, lawyer, former head of the St. Louis Transfer Co., and well known banquet speaker, is shown as valued at $23,484 in the inventory filed today. Bonds and coupons for $20,000 of the total, stocks $875, cash in bank, $2609. A membership in the Merchants' Exchange is listed at $450. Stock not included in the valuation are 50 shares of the Kansas City, St. Louis & Chicago Railway Co., with the entry "value unknown," and 1000 shares Algore mining stock, declared as worthless. The bonds are mostly of counties and school districts. The inventory was filed by the widow, Mrs. Grace Fisher Tansey, who is executrix.

CONSTABLE FILES LIST OF DISCHARGED DEPUTIES

Had Read Complaints of Men "Shaking Down" Drivers, in Newspapers, He Said.

Constable Flood of St. Ferdinand Township today filed with the St. Louis County Court a list of 10 deputies whom he said he had discharged following complaints that his men were "shaking down" grocers for gratuities instead of sending them to trial in Justice of the Peace court. In filing the list Flood declared the only complaints he had heard against his men were through the newspapers. He made no references to complaints made to him by the Automobile Club of Missouri, but remarked he might hire back some of the discharged deputies if he found there was no foundation for the charges. Flood, who is a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket, announced yesterday that he had fired five deputies who were engaged in patrolling the roads for speeders. The other five on the list were employed to ride the roads only occasionally. All the deputies are unsalaried, drawing their revenue from fees.

MINORITY FOR MODIFICATION OF BIG FOUR RAILROAD LEASE

Stockholders Organize Committee
Empowered to Negotiate Sale of Their Shares.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Formation of a protective committee representing minority common stockholders of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway (Big Four) was completed yesterday to oppose the proposed lease of the road's properties to the New York Central and negotiate for modification of the plan or for the disposal of the minority common stock on "fair terms."

The lease terms outlined by the New York Central call for an annual rental sufficient to guarantee 5 per cent on the preferred and 10 per cent on the common stock of the Big Four.

POLICEMAN INJURED WHEN MOTORCYCLE HITS AUTO

Driver of Car Arrested After Accident at Tenth and Soulard Streets.

Motor Cycle Policeman Eugene Livingston, 29 years old, of 4804 Milenz avenue, suffered a possible skull fracture and multiple abrasions of the head and body at 11 a. m. today when his motor cycle collided with an automobile at Tenth and Soulard streets. The driver of the machine, Leonard Wolf of 110 South Tenth street, Luxemburg, St. Louis County, was arrested. Judge Simon Nipper of the St. Louis Court of Appeals witnessed the accident and took Livingston to Soulard Street Police Station in his automobile. From there he was removed to the city hospital.

BOY GIVEN 2 YEARS ESCAPES Jumps From Second Story Window At Detention Home.

Rosario Lambert, 17 years old, of 802 South Sixth street, escaped from the House of Detention for the second time by jumping from a second-story window of the institution at 11:30 a. m. today.

He escaped shortly after he was returned to the second-floor dormitory from the juvenile court, where he had been sentenced to a 2-year term in the Boonville Reformatory for stealing an automobile. The youth broke the lock on the heavy screen guarding the window and apparently was uninjured in the leap, as he was seen to scramble to his feet and run south on Fourteenth street toward the railroad yards. He jumped from the same window last year while under another charge.

ST. LOUIS ARTIST IS WINNER William Bauer Awarded Purchase Prize at Fair Painting Display.

William Bauer of St. Louis with his painting "Winter Landscape," is the winner of the purchase prize for the best professional oil painting on display at the Missouri State Fair, Sedalia. The prize is $250, giving the State the right of ownership. The winner of this prize last year also was of St. Louis, Tom P. Barnett, who painted "Lovers' Lane." This is the second year this prize has been offered. In this year the State plans to have a collection of State-owned pictures by Missouri artists. Eighty-one St. Louis artists entered pictures in the professional oil group.

MOTOR COACH SERVICE

will be established by the Baltimore & Ohio direct from trainside at Jersey City to two new stations in the "Heart of New York City"

COMMENCING Sunday, August 29th, a fleet of commodious motor coaches will be placed in operation for the exclusive use of Baltimore & Ohio patrons, entering or leaving New York City.

On arrival in Jersey City, you step from your train into the waiting motor coach which will take you and your hand bag-

York's activities, with choice of two routes.

Coach stations will be located in the Pershing Square Building on 42nd Street, just east of Park Avenue and opposite the Grand Central Terminal. Also in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, on the 33rd Street side, corner of Astor Court. Regular schedules, over fixed routes, to uptown and downtown New York, will be maintained between these coach

stations and the Jersey City train terminal. See details on the map.

You will find the coach stations centrally located and convenient to the uptown business,
hotel and shopping districts, subway and surface lines. They will be equipped with ticket offices, parcel checking facilities, women's rest rooms and porter service.

Each coach will be in charge of a chauffeur skilled in traffic and a uniformed attendant trained to Baltimore & Ohio standards of courtesy and service.

This will provide the traveling

CARDINALS REDUCE PIRATES' LEAD TO .014 BY BEATING DODGERS, 8-7

Bill Southworth Hits Two Homers, One in 7th, With Two on the Sacks

Alexander Protects One-Run Lead and Is Credited With Victory — Brooklyn Breaks Down Sherdel Jinx and Takes 7-3 Lead Only to Lose in Stretch.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Billy Southworth, with one sharp swing of his bat, reduced the Pirates' first place lead to .014 and turned an apparently certain defeat into a glorious uphill victory yesterday afternoon. Everybody in the park was about ready to concede the game to Brooklyn. The Cards had scored three runs off Douglas "Buz" McWeeny in the first inning and then the right-hander had struck his stride and turned them back in the second.

Meantime the Dodgers had shaken off the spell of Bill Sherdel's slow ball and curves, knocked him from the box and bombarded Herman Bell so effectively that when the Cardinals went to bat in the seventh inning the Dodgers had a 7 to 3 lead.

And then things began to happen. Bell failed to start the inning, but Taylor Douthett lined a single to center and Bob O'Farrell crashed a double to left. Tommy Thevenow, the great little man in the pinch, lived up to his reputation and lined a single to center, scoring Douthett and putting O'Farrell on third. Hefey batted for Keen and was called out on strikes, but Wattle Holm singled to right scoring O'Farrell.

Still Two Runs Behind.

Even so, the Dodgers were not worried. They still were two runs ahead and McWeeny would stop the Cards. Nor was there any undue excitement as yet among the cash customers. They had conceded the game, but they were sitting it out and they gave the usual encouragement to Billy Southworth.

Hill had started the first inning attack on McWeeny with a home run and it really was too much to expect him to do it again. But the fans cheered half-heartedly and suggested that Bill hit just one more.

Bill certainly had the range. He swished his bat just once and the ball sailed to right. It did not land in the pavilion. It was a line drive, a hit too high for that. But the ball did hit the roof of the pavilion and skidded merrily out to Grand Boulevard and was headed for the river when last seen.

What a whop, what a runcy blow! The home run, scoring Thevenow and Holm ahead of Southworth, transformed a 7-5 deficit into an 8-7 Cardinal advantage and the Cardinals held that lead and won by that score.

Reinhart to Pitch Against Dodgers In Second Game of the Series Today

Arthur Reinhart, who beat the Dodgers in Brooklyn, Aug. 6, will throw his left-handed slants at them this afternoon in the second game of the series. In his game at Brooklyn, Arthur had everything. He held the toe to seven hits and had the honor of beating the great McWeeny.

"Old Pete" Stops 'Em.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, "Old Pete" to his buddies, saw to it that the Dodgers did not overcome that one-run lead that Southworth's home run had produced. Alex pitched the eighth and ninth, gave one hit and struck out two men and because he protected that one-run lead so well and because he pitched better than any other Cardinal pitcher in the game, he was credited with the victory.

According to the scoring rules a pitcher is entitled to the runs made in an inning during which he is taken out for a pinch hitter. Keen pitched the seventh and therefore, technically, might be credited with the victory. But equity dictates that Old Pete should have it.

Keen pitched to only three batters in his one inning, but each connected solidly. Fowler flied to Holm, Herman sent Douthett racing back for his powerful line drive and the center fielder also had to scurry for Cox's fly.

Ray Blades wrenched a knee chasing Felix's triple in the second inning and had to retire. Holm took his place in left. Blades' injury was not serious and he will be back in left in a day or two, possibly his afternoon.

Southworth drove in four runs, and Lester Bell, Douthett, Thevenow and Holm one each.

The Cards scored three in the first on Southworth's homer, Butler's fumble of the ground ball, L. Bell's triple and Douthett's single.

In the second Felix tripled and scored on Bohne's infield out.

Sherdel had to retire in the third. Herman started by beating out a bunt. Cox's fly, but Felix forced Herman at third, but Felix singled to center, filling the bases. Sherdel walked Bohne, forcing Cox over the plate, and Butler singled to left, scoring Fournier and Felix and putting the Dodgers ahead, 4 to 2. Herman's fly then relieved Sherdel and stopped the rally.

In the fourth Cox beat out a slow roller to L. Bell and scored on Felix's double to right.

An error by Hornsby paved the way for two Brooklyn runs in the

WRAY'S COLUMN

Zeal at a Discount.

TODAY Max Carey and his two Pittsburgh accessories stand convicted of the heinous crime of "excessive zeal," for which Carey is suspended and Bigbee and Adams released. In this day, in other lines, they hire men for their zeal.

President Heydler's finding was that the Pirate accessories were guilty of nothing more serious than a trifling bit of well meant insubordination, caused by ignorance of true conditions existing on the Pittsburgh bench.

The ruling seems to whitewash both sides of the controversy, but leaves the guiltless victim still in disgrace and under sentence.

No wonder the "human chattel" sometimes writhes under the laws of baseball serfdom.

Sound Asleep.

WE gather from this one comforting thought — nobody on the Browns, with the possible exception of Ken Williams, is today in danger of being convicted of the crime of "excessive zeal."

"The most drab, colorless outfit that has been seen in Boston this year," is the comment of a Boston critic, who likewise believes Sisler "not in a class with other player-managers."

Who's to Blame?

NOT all of the situation is Sisler's fault. But in so far as the club lacks hustle, ambition and fight-to-the-finish spirit he is responsible. That supine shadow of a once great "prospector" known as the Browns is not going anywhere today partly because pitching was not up to snuff, and partly because nobody built a fire under the old machine to develop its full power.

The engineer was asleep.

Even the Heavens weep at the Carey incident—Rain hasn't permitted the Pirates to play since last Thursday, rolling up a heavy retribution in the form of consecutive double headers, late in the stretch run.

Here's Your Queue.

VETERAN critic John B. Foster says the Cardinals have only a "chimpanzee's chance to win the flag."

As we're only one game behind the leaders John probably means we're close enough to hear the "chink" of the world's series coin.

The Money Angle.

THE New York Yanks may be reconciled to playing the world's series in the Cardinals' "band-box" park, when they have a few facts pointed out, namely:

That the Cardinal stands can seat the fifth largest number of all the major league ball parks.

That under the alternate starting agreement a world's series between the Yanks and Cards this year would probably open in New York on a Saturday and Sunday, hop to St. Louis for three games and back to New York for the remaining two.

That such an arrangement would make possible another "million dollar world's series."

And what more can any modern baseball player want?

Carey Goes to Brooklyn Team Via Waiver Route

Giants and Dodgers Only Clubs to Claim Outfielder, Pittsburgh Officials Announce.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—Max Carey, fleet outfielder, has been claimed on waivers by Brooklyn. Pittsburgh National officials announced today. Waivers were asked on the Pirate captain after he had been suspended when it was discovered he was heading a movement to oust Fred Clarke, assistant coach, from the players' bench.

Skeeter Bigbee and Babe Adams, also involved in the anti-Clarke agitation, were released unconditionally.

With the expiration of the waiver time limit today, Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pirates, announced Carey would go to Brooklyn for the waiver price of $4000. Brooklyn and the New York Giants were the only teams putting in a claim for Carey, Dreyfuss said. All other National League and all American League clubs waived on him.

Waivers had been obtained previously on Bigbee and Adams. It was reported that Baltimore was after Adams and that Kansas City seeks to land Bigbee.

OUSTED PLAYERS NOT 'GUILTY OF MALICIOUS INTENT,' HEYDLER FINDS

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 18.—The case of Carey, Adams and Bigbee against the Pittsburgh Nationals apparently was a closed incident today.

The three Corsair veterans—Max Carey, Babe Adams and Carson Bigbee—quitted for insubordination, freed cleared of any "malicious intent" in their leadership of a movement to have Fred C. Clarke, assistant manager, removed from the bench. Their exoneration of everything save "mistaken zeal" came yesterday from John A. Heydler, president of the National League, to whom Carey had appealed following his suspension by the Pirate management and the unconditional release of Adams and Bigbee.

Heydler found after a series of conferences with the disputants that none of the three players was guilty of "willful insubordination or malicious intent to disrupt or injure his club" and that each may leave the team "with a good name" and with no "stain or blemish on their long and honorable careers."

Both sides to the dispute indicated their satisfaction with the league executive's decision.

Likely to Go to Dodgers.

"All we wanted was to clear our names, and Mr. Heydler's statement has done that," was the terse comment of Carey, spokesman for the ousted trio.

"We accept his findings and consider the matter a closed incident," Sam Dreyfuss, club treasurer, said on behalf of the management.

Heydler, announcing his decision, emphasized he had no power to force the club to rescind its action against the three veterans. He declared Carey, in appealing the case, had made it plain that he had no desire to remain with the club, but sought only to have his name, as well as those of Adams and Bigbee, cleared of any charge of wrongdoing.

Jockey Johnson Injured.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Jockey G. Johnson, contract rider for the Bradley Stables, riding Jeal in the first race at the Lincoln Platte race course yesterday, broke his collar bone when his horse stumbled over Keegan, who had fallen in the stretch. Keegan's jockey, R. Finneway, was bruised but not seriously hurt.

Rockaway Four Wins.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 18.—In one of the fastest exhibitions of polo seen on the Point Judith Club field in years, Rockaway, N. Y., yesterday defeated the Eleventh Cavalry four, representing the Pacific Coast division, in an elimination match of the Inter-club championship. The score was 11 to 5.

PITCHER MORRISON IS REINSTATED BY PIRATES

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 18.—Johnny Morrison, Pittsburgh National pitcher, suspended many weeks ago when he went to his home in Owensboro, Ky., without first asking permission, has been reinstated.

Morrison, on the sick list for some time after a tonsil operation, said he believed he had fully recovered and would be able to take his regular turn on the mound.

AMERICAN DOG DERBY TO HAVE $5000 VALUE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—The first American dog derby was announced last night for running on Sept. 11 at the Thornton Greyhound racing track, just outside Chicago. The purse for the American Greyhound Derby will be $5000, the largest in the history of the sport, and officials anticipate a field of half a hundred.

"I'll Knock Tunney Out or Get Knocked Out," Dempsey Predicts of Title Fight

Tunney's Going to Have to Slug Whether He Wants to or Not, Says Champion — "No Clinching Will Save Him."

By Jack Dempsey, As Told to a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1926.)

THIS battle with Gene Tunney is NOT going to be decided on a point decision.

I'm going into the ring to knock out—or be knocked out in failure. Tunney may think he'll box me—but Tunney's going to slug it with me to a finish. Either he goes down and finally stays there, or I'll go down and come up—an ex-champion of the world.

If Tunney has the idea that this is going to be one of those long range or pussyfooting battles, he's wrong. I'll tell him so now—and I'll prove it in the ring on the day we meet. This is going to be a fight, not a dance carnival nor an exhibition of foot-trotting and that old bunny hug stuff.

Only once since I've been champion has any man gone the distance with me. That was Tommy Gibbons. But there were several reasons for that. I wasn't sure of myself nor my condition in that fight. I figured, too, that the hostile crowd might do a little rough stuff. So I was not concentrated fully on attack. I didn't rip and tear into Tommy.

I was cautious. I coasted along. By the time the fight had worn on to a point where I knew I was Okay and could stop as fast as any day in my life, Gibbons realized it, too. He stopped fighting, he just clinched his way to the end.

Best Shape of My Life.

This Tunney fight is going to be different. I'm in shape now to go 15 rounds at top speed with any man in the world. A month of training and I'll be in greater condition than I ever was in my lifetime. When I go into that ring, I'll demonstrate it—for the benefit of Tunney's skeptical mind.

If Tunney wants to win my title, he'll do it with a knockout. For this affair is going to end a long, long time, before the fifteenth round is scheduled to start. I'll carry the fight to Tunney—make him slug it if he won't do it of his own accord—and then may be the best hitter win.

Wants Toe-to-Toe Battle.

This idea that Tunney may have that he can smother my punches and clinch his way along, is just a bit wrong. I think I do my best on the floor.

EASTERN LEAGUER HURLS NO-HIT GAME

COMEBACK OF HORNSBY REFLECTED IN FANS' CONTEST

POPULARITY INCREASES DAY BY DAY

Lazzeri of Yankees Still Leads in Babe Ruth All-American Competition but Cardinal May Overtake Him.

As the ginger returns to his throwing arm and his batting eye draws a steeper bead on the fast ones, Rogers Hornsby, Cardinal manager, gets named in the Babe Ruth All-American contest selections with increasing frequency.

Hornsby, whose grit and determination typify the spirit of the rising Cardinals and is largely responsible for their fighting style, had the misfortune to develop physical handicaps and suffer annoying injuries in midseason and slipped from the batting lead of the National League which he held so long.

McCarthy strategy. But the time has rolled around

Rules Governing Babe Ruth All-American Team Contest

Any reader who mails to the Post-Dispatch between Aug. 1 and Aug. 31 a team of 10 players (except Ruth himself) to the National and American Leagues for the season of 1926, with a letter of not more than 200 words, explaining the selection of the team, is eligible to compete.

The reader whose team—two pitchers and eight men in the other positions—is the same or nearest Ruth's selection and is accompanied by the best letter giving reasons for the choice, will be declared the winner.

The contest winner must not only select the same 10 players as Ruth, but must assign them to the same 10 positions on the team.

Players may be placed in positions other than their regular places provided they have again when it is considered wise baseball by some managers to pass him with two men on in order to get to Bottomley. Again he is a big threat. His comeback is reflected in the contest letters which flock in daily. He is still far behind Lazzeri but may top the Yankee yet in the selections.

Willard Hutchinson. Leaven-played in those places in at least one regular league game in 1926.

Players must be selected on the basis of their playing in 1926, NOT on records made in previous seasons.

In case no team is exactly the same as that selected by Babe Ruth, the one nearest will be named on the merit of his accompanying explanation.

Violation of any rule set forth here will render selections unavailable.

There will be suitable trophies, to be announced later, awarded the winner, runner-up and third best selection and letter.

In addition, Babe Ruth himself offers an autographed bat to the winner of the first prize. The bat will also be inscribed with the winner's name.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 18.—William T. Tilden and A. H. Chapin Jr. of Springfield, Mass., one of the national champion's pupils, both reached the fourth round yesterday at the Meadow Club invitation tennis tournament.

Playing here for the first time since 1919, when he won the tournament, Tilden eliminated three opponents. In the first round he won in love sets from John P. Stockton of New York, then scored over Fritz Mercur of Lehigh University, 6-1, 6-2, and Neil Sullivan of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-1.

Except for Mercur, who showed a strong back-hand, none of the champion's opponents gave him much trouble.

Chapin defeated only two opponents in his advance to the quarter final, since he won by default in his first match. In the second round he defeated Donald Strachan, Philadelphia Junior, 6-4, 6-4, and in the next round outscored Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth, Tex., 6-2, 8-6.

Brian I. C. Norton of Dallas, Tex., and Cranston Holman of Leland Stanford, California, second and third of the seeded players, both scored double victories to reach the third round. Norton defeated George S. Patterson of Southampton, 6-1, 6-2, and Nathaniel W. Niles, third seed, on veteran, 6-1, 6-1. Holman won easily from John Barr of Texas, 6-1, 6-2, but was extended by the heavy service of S. Howard Voshell, New York veteran, 6-3, 9-7.

Dr. George King of New York had the heaviest assignment of the day. He won two severe matches, defeating Lionel Ogden of Leland Stanford, 6-2, 8-7, and Jack Wright of the Canadian Davis Cup team, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.

FARRELL LEADER IN EASTERN QUALIFYING TEST FOR U. S. OPEN

By the Associated Press.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Johnny Farrell of Quaker Ridge, who probably has led in more golf qualification rounds than any other player, yesterday showed the way in the Eastern district tests for the national professional championship with 146 for the 36 holes.

Eleven players were to qualify, but two are still in question after 12 extra holes of play in darkness putting an end to the struggle. The 72 holes found Fred Canausa; Joe Turnesa, John Golden and Arthur Demane designated at 153. In the playoff, Golden was successful, while Canausa failed.

Turnesa and Demane will play 18 holes today for the other place.

Men on second and third. Batter hits ball, which strikes umpire. Runners advance and score. Is the batter out or safe? Can the runners advance?—RACOR BASEBALL CLUB.

The batter is credited with a hit if the ball was fair and was not touched by a fielder before hitting the umpire. The runners do not advance unless forced. In this case they hold their bases.

(1) Runners on second and third. Batter hits fly to outfield. Man on third scores after fly is caught but the other runner is doubled off second after the run has crossed the plate. Does the run count?—JACK SMITH.

TEAMS SOVIET WOULD SETTLE U. S. PRIVATE CLAIMS

Refers to Discuss Case Individually—Ready to Recognize Kerensky Debt.

Radio in the Post-Dispatch and the Daily News. Copyright, 1926, by the Associated Press. The Soviet Government is involved in every discussion of resumption of diplomatic relations with other countries, is on entirely different status with regard to the United States, according to the policies which the Soviet Government has committed itself to.

The Government is willing to recognize the so-called Kerensky debt, which totals more than half the American claims of $385,000,000. Though the Kerensky debt was incurred after the overthrow of the Czar, it came before the Bolshevik revolution of February, 1917, a deadline of the Government's recognition of obligations.

Recognition of the Kerensky debt does not mean that the Soviet officials have changed their policy that the larger part of that debt was used in the United States to support envoys at Washington accredited to the Soviet Government for conducting propaganda and other activities.

However, the Soviet is willing to give this point to reach an agreement, but it does not waive claims actual damages which Russia suffered through the allied occupation of Archangel and Siberia after the collapse of Kerensky.

According to diplomatic circles, would not establish a precedent for recognition of the earlier debts, which form the major part of other nations' claims against Russia. Soviet officials have stated officially that it is economically impossible for Russia to recognize and liquidate these debts.

So far as the private claims of America are concerned, the Soviet Government is confident that it will be able to adjust these satisfactorily. The largest claimants are the Singer Sewing Machine Co., The International Harvester Co., The National City Bank of New York and various life insurance companies. Though individually large, the American private claims are smaller in the aggregate than the private claims of several other nations.

Would settle individually. Any time these claimants wish to discuss their claims individually, the Soviet government is willing to hear them and to consider permitting the claimants to recover their property and resume operations in Russia in accord with the present laws. The Soviet prefers to discuss the claims individually with the private claimants rather than have them lumped with government claims.

TRADE COMMISSAR OUSTED IN RUSSIA

Henry Miller.

LEON B. KAMENOFF, latest victim of the Stalin steam-roller in Russia, forced out of office by the chief of the Communists, Trotsky and Zinovieff were dealt with similarly.

Both Accused of Owning Stolen Autos—Alleged "King" of Theft Ring Held for Grand Jury.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 18.—Chief of Police Shirley West and City Detective Richard Claudin were suspended, and Floyd Overby, alleged "king pin" of the auto theft ring, was held to the grand jury yesterday.

Chief West was suspended until the charge that he owned a stolen auto is proved or disproved. Detective Claudin was suspended for the same reason.

Investigators, who were attempting to regain an alleged stolen car Overby had replevined from them after they had seized it from him, lost their case when the alleged right owner failed to appear.

Overby was held to the Peoria County grand jury on two charges, each requiring $1000 bond, for defacing engine numbers. He was rearrested on two more warrants from Chicago charging receiving of stolen property.

WANT CONVICTS OUT OF MINES Lexington, C. of C. Resolution Demands Withdrawal.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. LEXINGTON, Mo., Aug. 18.—A demand that Gov. Baker and the State Prison Board immediately withdraw convict labor from the Lexington coal mine is contained in a resolution adopted last night by the Lexington Chamber of Commerce.

Because of the action of the Prison Board in sending 62 convicts to work a mine of the Western Coal Mining Co., 134 miners have been unemployed since the convicts arrived here Aug. 11. The resolution declares Lexington citizens greatly disapprove of the convict labor and desire immediate withdrawal.

RESCUES BOY; LOSES LIFE Farmer Falls Trying to Climb Tree With Bull in Pursuit.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 18.—After boosting a 12-year-old boy up a tree to safety from a charging bull, Louis Haeffell, 50 years old, while trying to climb the tree himself, fell and died from a broken neck.

The accident occurred on the Haeffell farm, near here. The boy sat in the tree two hours before the bull permitted him to go to a farm house for aid. The boy said the bull circled the tree many times, but did not molest Haeffell's body.

MAIL LOOT MAY BE $100,000 Postoffice Inspectors to Check Loss in U. P. Train Robbery.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Sixty registered mail packages, believed to have contained about $100,000, mailed from Chicago to western points, may have been among the loot taken by the robbers who held up Union Pacific Train No. 5 at Groen River, Wyo., last Saturday.

Ruch D. Simmons, chief postoffice inspector, sent R. B. Mundell, an inspector, to Salt Lake City to help check the loss. The robbers have not been caught.

PASTOR AND PARTY HURT IN AUTO CRASH.

By the Associated Press. CENTRALIA, Ill., Aug. 18.—Rev. R. E. Willis, pastor of the Methodist church south of Patoka, 16 miles north of here, his wife and four-year-old son, and a Miss Rogers, of Patoka, were seriously injured when the car in which they were riding was struck by a train at a crossing at Tamaroa, 30 miles south of here. All are expected to recover. The party was en route to the Illinois conference of the church at Cambria, Ill.

MARQUIS DE LA COUDRAY ARRIVES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The Marquis Falaise de la Coudray, husband of Gloria Swanson, movie actress, landed from the steamship Olympic today after being detained aboard with other aliens overnight.

When she learned her husband would not be passed by immigration officials last night, Miss Swanson went aboard the ship and remained with him. The Marquis occupied a modest inside cabin. Among several presents he brought for his wife was a silver bracelet. They left the pier in Miss Swanson's limousine.

AGAIN ALLEGES TAMPERING WITH 'KITCHENER COFFIN'

Newspaper Man Says Authorities "Put Themselves Wrong" in Seizing Property.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Aug. 18.—Frank Power, British newspaper man, who recently announced he had found the body of Lord Kitchener, today reiterated his contention that some one tampered with the "Kitchener coffin," which was found empty.

Although Power makes no direct charge, he is asking what the Home Office has done with the inner coffin, which, he says, contained the body of Kitchener.

"I have already had information showing that it was impossible to make a substitution of the inner shell containing the body which I found in Norway," Power said. "I do feel that the authorities put themselves wrong by seizing my property without giving me notice."

The case was in their possession practically two days before I knew where it was.

"I have received information that at the time I was expecting the coffin in London, a coffin answering the description of mine, large and heavy, was taken into the Admiralty."

The British newspaper man declared that he intended to continue his investigation.

DEVELOPING MISSOURI RIVER Bids for Aerial Survey to Yankton, S. D., Soon to Be Opened.

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18.—Bids for an aerial survey of the Missouri River from St. Louis to Yankton, S. D., approximately 900 miles, will be opened Aug. 24, by Maj. C. C. McGee, supervising engineer of Missouri River development.

A preliminary survey was made of the Missouri River from St. Louis to Kansas City by the army air corps last year. The completed survey will be used by the War Department engineers in the development of a six-foot channel in the Missouri River from St. Louis to Kansas City and the upper part of the river whenever funds are appropriated by Congress for that purpose.

MOORE AND AIDS AT MEETING Director George T. Moore of Shaw's Garden, with two of his staff, is attending the International Congress of Plant Scientists.

A gathering of the top of the profession from nearly every civilized country—this week at Ithaca, N. Y.

Accompanying Dr. Moore are Drs. Jesse M. Greenman, curator of Shaw's Garden herbarium and professor of botany at Washington University, and Dr. Roland L. Moore, a Viennese scientist, who recently joined the garden staff, whose achievement in growing orchids from the seeds in a test tube, like bacteria, was announced by Shaw's Garden a few months ago.

MRS. T. J. BRADSHAW DIVORCED Husband, Former Manager of Hotel Coronado, Had Withdrawn Suit.

Mrs. Maxine Bradshaw of 4914 Argyle place was divorced today from Thomas J. Bradshaw, former manager of Hotel Coronado, now a resident of Chicago, by Circuit Judge Peary in the Court of Domestic Relations. There are no children, and Mrs. Bradshaw, who alleged inadequate support and general indignities, did not ask for alimony. Her maiden name, Thompson, was restored.

The Bradshaws were married Feb. 24, 1923, and separated last June 10. Bradshaw filed suit for divorce last September, but withdrew it following a reconciliation shortly thereafter.

$150,000 Grain Fire at Havana, Ill. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 18.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed 45,000 bushels of grain, mostly wheat, and the McFadden grain elevator at Havana, Ill., on the Illinois River, south of here, last night. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

CHINESE NATIONAL ARMY IN RETREAT FROM HWAIIAI

Tear Up Railroad to Prevent Pursuit; Many Russian Among Their Dead.

By the Associated Press. PEKING, Aug. 18.—The Kuomintang, national armies of the Government, overthrown last April, are in full retreat to their base at Kalgan, 116 miles northwest of Peking. Forced from Nankow Pass after heavy bombardment, in which both sides are believed to have suffered heavy losses, they yielded the town of Hwaillai, north of the pass, to the allied forces of Marshals Wu Pei-fu and Chang Tso-lin without resistance.

Falling back toward Kalgan, 70 miles from Hwaillai, the national armies are tearing up the railroad tracks to check pursuit. Somewhere along the northern side of the loop of the great wall of China, of which Kalgan is a gateway toward Mongolia, they may make their stand.

Foreign military observers described the defensive works at the entrance of Nankow Pass as demonstrating the highest technical skill. Trenches were protected by electrically charged wires and with entanglements to withstand the fiercest assault. The allies, however, proved the undoing of the Kuomintang. The hillside were torn and pitted with shell holes.

Among the Kuomintang dead were a number of Russians.

FIGHT FOR EQUALITY IN FRANCE Women Want Postal Privileges In Own Names.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Without prejudice to their claim to votes and general equality with men before the law, some married French women have decided to select a few special, if apparently minor points, on which they intend to demand equality with men.

A French wife went to the post office and asked for a box as her husband's as possible. "Are you in business on your own account, Madame?" asked the postmaster. "Not then you need your husband's authorization to rent a box."

The reply started the movement for postal equality.

ANOTHER EX-PREMIER HELD ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 18.—M. Papanastasiou, former Premier and leader of the Democratic party in Greece, has been arrested.

It is probable that M. Papanastasiou was apprehended in connection with the arrest Monday of former Premier Kafandaris and a large number of army officers, charged with "persistent and continued anti-government activities."

M. Kafandaris was sent in exile to an island in the Aegean Sea. At Papanastasiou was arrested in connection with a plot early in the present year and was banished, but several months later President Pangalos ordered his liberation.

Greek Prince in Auto Accident.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 18.—Prince Andrew of Greece and his wife, who was Princess Alice of Battenburg, had a narrow escape from death last night when their automobile collided with a passenger bus. The Prince's car was overturned, but nobody suffered more than a bad shock.

The Prince and the other driver were taken to a police station, where the Prince offered to pay all damages if the bill were sent to the King's palace, where he is a guest.

EMPLOYEES OF PHILADELPHIA FAIR EXHIBIT SUE FOR WAGES

Trial of Two Other Suits to Close Exposition Sundays Set for Aug. 26.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—The board of directors of the Sesqui-centennial International Exposition were faced with three court actions today, two seeking to close the exposition on Sundays, and another filed by a group of former employees asking for back salaries.

In its efforts to prevent continuation of the seven-day-a-week exposition, on the ground that it constitutes a violation of the Pennsylvania blue laws of 1794, the Methodist Men's Committee of 100 has applied for a writ of mandamus to compel the city officials to enforce the law. August 26 has been fixed as the date for the hearing. A case brought by the State is set for the same day.

A third suit in equity was filed in Federal Court by more than 100 musicians, actors, waitresses and maids who were employed in a German commercial exhibit that went into bankruptcy. The plaintiffs, most of whom are German nationals and brought to this country to lend "Atmosphere" to the exhibit, say that when the concern where they were employed failed, they were left to shift for themselves with back pay owing them. They further say that they were permitted to enter this country only on condition that they were not to be employed except at the exposition.

In their suit they ask that the exposition authorities be ordered to liquidate the bankrupt concession's assets and that the money be distributed among them.

MOTHER, THREE CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE.

By the Associated Press. FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 18.—A mother and three of her children were burned to death today when their farm home near Cooperstown was destroyed by fire. The victims were Mrs. David Beightol, an infant son and two small daughters. The fire was caused by explosion of an oil stove. The husband was absent.

NOBLE TELLS STORY TO POPE Pontiff Gives Him Medal for Norge Flight Across Pole.

MOVE TO END BRITISH STRIKE

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—A joint meeting of the Central Committee of the Mining Association, representing the coal owners, and representatives of the miners will be held tomorrow, it was announced today.

The association summoned its Central Committee to London after receiving a letter from A. J. Cook, secretary of the miners' association, who is scheduled to introduce the nominee, was informed that he was "as bad a Socialist as Brookhart."

(By a card vote of 425,000 to 560,000, the miners' delegate conference yesterday authorized its executive body to reopen negotiations with the mine owners and the Government in an effort to bring to an end the long British coal strike.)

PROHIBITION OUT OF POLITICS

HOPE OF MRS. WILLEBRANDT

Civil Service Basis Only Way to Enforce Dry Law, Says Assistant Attorney-General

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant United States Attorney-General, is a politician. She admits it and boasts of it.

In her compartment of the Santa Fe limited, en route for Chicago after a business trip to California, the dynamic foe of bootleggers last night expressed her belief that prohibition never will be enforced as long as it is the football of politicians.

"Prohibition can be enforced," she said, "and it will be, as the enforcement is taken out of politics and put on a civil service basis. That is the next step to be taken."

Mrs. Willebrandt has just completed an investigation of the prohibition scandal in California, which resulted in the indictment of Col. New Green, prohibition administrator of Northern California, on charges of embezzlement.

"Crooked officials heat us more than anything," she said. Much of her time is spent investigating the alleged misdeeds of prohibition officials.

Mrs. Willebrandt denied rumors she might enter politics in California.

"I wouldn't have the highest political position in America," she declared. "The senatorship of California was offered to me on a platform. I prefer my work in the law. Maybe, some day when politics and prohibition are separated, I might consider holding a public office."

JOE JINKS

AGAIN WITH HIS POCKETS FULL OF MONEY
FROM HIS BIG HOLLYWOOD
REAL ESTATE DEAL, JOE IS TRYING HARD TO GET DOWN TO EARTH AND LIVE HIS LIFE—WHICH IS NOT AN EASY JOB!

I FEEL LIKE I'M WALKING ON AIR!
AM I WORTH $600,000 OR AM I
DREAMING IT? P. IT'S THE QUEEREST SENSATION I EVER HAD—THIS THING OF BEING WEALTHY—!!

THE FIRST THING ON TH' PROGRAM IS TO QUIT WORK—IT NEVER DID AGREE WITH ME—I'LL SELL OUT MY "LE-MON" AUTOMOBILE—AGENCY!!

IT OCCURS TO ME THAT IT'LL BE A MIGHTY GOOD IDEA IF I KEEP MY MOUTH SHUT ABOUT MY WEALTH—EVERYBODY WILL TRY TO BORROW FROM ME!

—BUT GOSH! ON THE OTHER HAND, HOW CAN I BLOW ALL THIS MONEY AND AT THE SAME TIME CONCEAL THE FACT THAT I'VE GOT IT?—!!

IT'S MIGHTY NICE
OF JACK TO OFFER
TO SELL YOUR CAR FOR YOU—HE'S A WONDERFUL SALESMAN

IT WAS NICE OF
YOU TO ASK HIM TO DO IT—
I APPRECIATE
IT, DORA

I SOLD YOUR CAR FOR YOU
FOR $100!

OH, ROD ISN'T THAT GRAND?
$100 FOR
OF JUNK

DIDN'T EXPECT
$50 FOR
IT.

YOU KEEP $20
FOR YOURSELF
FOR YOUR TROUBLE
—I'LL TAKE
THE REST

THANKS, OLD MAN—I'LL KEEP
THE $20 THEY PAID DOWN—
YOU'LL GET THE REST IN $5
INSTALLMENTS
OF FIVE

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO GO TO A SHOW TO-NIGHT, DORA?

I'D LOVE
TO

SHE AIN'T
SO DUMB!

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query.
Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

PAIN.—Address G. E. P. Hartelet, British Consul, Granite Building,
St. Louis, for the information desired regarding statistics of growing and progressive towns of Canada.

R. E. L.—To clean dark furnace a quantity of new bran in a pan, taking care that it does not burn, to prevent which it must be briskly stirred. When well warmed rub it thoroughly into furnace with the hand. Repeat this two or three times, then shake the pan and give it another sharp rubbing until free from dust. For white fur, lay them on a table and rub well with bran made moist with warm water; rub until quite dry and afterwards with dry bran.
The wet bran should be put on with flannel, then dry with book muslin. Light fur, in addition to the above, should be well rubbed with magnesia or a piece of book muslin, after the bran process,
against the way of the fur.

MRS. M. J.—For canning select corn between the milk and dough stage, can the same day. When pleated. Remove the husks and silk. Blanch on the cob two to three minutes in boiling water. Include water, cut the corn from the cob with a sharp knife. Pack corn in jars corn within 1 1/2 inches of the top. See that it is packed in jar and sterilized as soon as possible. After the jars are blanched. Handle only a small quantity at a time. Add one level teaspoonful of salt and three to five teaspoonfuls of medium thick syrup to each quart and enough hot water to fill jar. Place rubber and top in position, seal partially,
but not tight. Sterilize 2 1/2 to 3
hours.

G. S.—The sticky material applied to the fly paper is the following: Boiled linseed oil, 5 to 7 parts;

sum, 2 to 3 parts; nondrying oil, 3 to 2 parts. For the nondrying oil, cottonseed, castor or neatsfoot, in fact, any of the cheaper oils that do not readily dry or harden, will answer. The proper amount of each ingredient depends upon the condition of the boiled oil. If it is boiled down very stiff, more of the other ingredients will be necessary, while if thin, less will be required. (2)
The oil is for poisoning fly-paper. Quassia chips, 150 parts; chloride of cobalt, 10 parts; tartar
emetic, 2 parts; tincture of long pepper (1 to 4) 80 parts; water, 400 parts. Boil the quassia in the water until the liquid is reduced one-half, strain, and add the other ingredients, saturate common absorbent paper with the solution, and dry. The paper is used in the ordinary way.

MRS. W. The following is the recipe for lady fingers. Whites of 3 eggs; 1/2 cup of powdered sugar;
yolk of 2 eggs; 1/2 cup of flour;
1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry, add sugar gradually and continue beating. Then add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored, and flavorize. Cut and fold in with un-buttered paper, using a pastry bag and tube. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and bake eight minutes in a moderate oven. Remove from paper with a knife. Lady fingers are much used for lining moulds that are to be filled with whipped cream mixtures. They are also served with frozen desserts and sometimes put together in pairs with a thin coating of chopped cream between when they

and bend at the hips six times,
keeping the muscles well contract-

BEGGAR STRUCK DOWN BY STRANGER, DIES

Joseph Brown Suffered Skull Fracture When Knocked Into Gutter.

Joseph Brown, who asked for alms and received a blow on the jaw from a man whom he accosted on Sixth street near Market street Monday, died yesterday afternoon in City Hospital. His assailant is being sought. Brown was 59 years old, a widower, and roomed at 515 Clark avenue. His relatives, if any, are not known. Monday morning Brown began accosting passersby at Sixth and Market. He appeared to have been drinking, but the fact that he was drinking and begging attracted no particular attention until two men, apparently laborers, came along. In front of 25 South Sixth street Brown stopped them and without many words one of the men struck him. Brown fell to the sidewalk, striking his head, and rolled into the gutter. The men walked on.

At the hospital Brown was found to be suffering from a skull fracture, brain concussion and acute alcoholism.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED IN THREE AUTO ACCIDENTS

Boy, 8, Knocked Down on Page Boulevard; Woman Driver Loses Control of Machine.

Harold Hicks, 8 years old, 3559 Cook avenue, is in the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium with a fractured skull suffered yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Norman Leiman, 22, of 5226 Enright avenue. Leiman was arrested.

Patrolman Floodman of the Angelic Street District, was driving east on Page boulevard and when he approached No. 3711 he saw the boy, lying in the street with Leiman, who was driver of a Ford truck, kneeling at his side. Witnesses said the boy had been struck by the right front fender of the truck and that the right rear wheel had passed over his head.

Lawrence Wulfret, 27 years old, proprietor of the Lakewood Inn on Heege road, St. Louis County, was seriously injured yesterday when he was thrown from an automobile driven by Mrs. Ella Julian, 33 years old, 8400 Gravois avenue.

Mrs. Julian was driving south in Gravois when her car skidded as she approached the intersection of Austria avenue. She lost control and the machine ran up on the sidewalk, collided with a fire plug and then with a telephone pole. Both were thrown to the pavement. Mrs. Julian was bruised.

Miss Catherine Cleaver, 28 years old, of Collinsville, Ill., suffered lacerations of the head and body at 12:15 a. m. today when a car driven by Alton Stone of East St. Louis was overturned at Fourth and Pine streets in a collision with another machine.

CHAPTER V.

THE return to college after a three months' vacation is always an event. One is pleasantly excited, and not a little surprised to find things looking much the same as they used to look. It seems incredible that during a period when so much has happened to oneself, nothing apparent should have happened to the university.
On the other hand, should anything apparent have happened—a new dormitory rising where once was a vacant lot, a remembered tree cut down—one is highly indignant and cries forth anathemas indicative of a secret feeling that one should at least have been consulted beforehand.

"Here's Prexy's house!"
"Why, he's put on a new porch,
the old son-of-a-gun!"
"Look—look, there will you—
the Gamma Gammas are building an addition!"
"The hell they are!"
"Law school looks just the same!"

The roadster journeyed through Campus street, the four heads jerk-ing from side to side attentively.
Though it was by this time something after midnight, the dormitories and fraternity houses that lined the thoroughfare were lively with light and moving figures.
"Bed? Who thinks of bed on a night like this?" commented Pink.
Jock at the wheel said little. He was staring off over the tree-shaded green that centered this collegiate world, a green criss-crossed with pathways along which the entire student body trudged
daily en route from room to classroom and back again. "Think what it means?" he meditated, stirred. "Hundreds of years it's been there—thousands and thousands of forgotten footsteps"—
A line he had read once came back to him: "Where endlessly the dead go up and down!"

The voice of Dopey Lane seized upon him like a rude hand and wrenched him from these reveries.
"Ladies and gentlemen," he chanted, "on your right we have the home of Jock Hamill's inamorata,
a lady famed far and wide for her shapely legs and for the boadmind-edness of her husband!"
"Soft pedal!" warned Jock, grinning. "She'll hear you. They must be up—lights on in the living room!"

Throughout his sophomore year
he had been heckled unmercifully about Eunice Hathaway. She was a provocative brunette from Tennessee who had come to a fraternity house party some years before, married Bradley Hathaway on a dare the second day, and treated him dreadfully ever since. Their modest bungalow was less than two blocks from Jock's fraternity house and he had acquired the habit of dropping in there at odd hours. Actually, he went to see Bradley, whom he admired, and to find seclusion from the bedlam created by 37 "brothers" bent perpetually on merry-making. But he never attempted to explain this to anyone, realizing the futility of so doing, and it was therefore taken for granted that he was devoted to Eunice—an impression strengthened materially by the behaviour of Eunice herself. She was one of those women who want it known that men find them charming. She flaunted Jock in people's faces.

She looked at him languishingly in public; whispered close to his ear;
discussed him when he was not present in an intimate "he-and-I" tone that said plainly, "There's something to this, and don't make any mistake about it." She had even talked herself into believing it, and she would have been as astounded as anyone, if not more astounded, had she known that Jock cared nothing whatever for her—that she made him, in fact, not a little weary.

"Light is right!" Bill Olmstead was saying. "All ablaze in there,
to guide the traveler to port.
Aren't you going in, Jock? Oh, better go in! Oh, do go in! Poor girl has probably spent the day with her nose pressed to the window pane!"

Just at this moment the bungalow's door swung wide and Bradley Hathaway's figure was silhouetted, black against yellow. He bent to place a milk bottle on the porch,
then straightened suddenly as Jock howled, "Hul-lo, Brad!"
"Hello yourself! Who is it, anyway?"
"Jock Hamill and three of the better eggs."
"Jock—why, come in here this minute, you big bum! We've been wondering when you'd be along!"
"You see?" said Bill, sotto voce.
"Nobody's invited in but Jock. I do admire a husband with some idea of the fitness of things!"
Jock stopped the car and got out. "Shut up, Bill," he said good-naturedly, "and drive along down to the house. I'll be there soon—have to see Brad a minute!"

They met on the porch and entered the bungalow arm in arm,
both immensely glad of the reunion. Jock's regard for Bradley Hathaway was easily understandable when you looked well at him.
He had force and strength.
Strength of character, writ plain in his eyes and the line of his chin; strength of body. He was the type of man whom no one in the world can make sport except just one woman. . . .
"Eunice!" he called from the hall. "Guess who's here? Jock Hamill!"

"Oh—really?" A remote little cry of gladness. "Come in just a second, soon as I can throw a wrappah on." Eunice had clung persistently to her Tennessee accent through all these years in what she was pleased to call "the raucous No'th"; hence there were no concluding g's or r's in anything
she said.

"How is Eunice?" asked Jock politely, as he and Brad sat down.
"Oh, she's fine. Tied to death to see college reopening, of course
—it's devilishly stupid for her here in the summer. She wanted to take a cottage at the shore during July and August, but I couldn't quite make the grade."

There was a silence. Brad was frowning at nothing, and Jock was feeling sorry for Brad. He could imagine precisely the scenes that must have taken place, Eunice pleading, nagging, threatening, Brad gently obdurate. . . . Brad had graduated in 1917, fought in France, and come back to the university as assistant coach, a position accorded him in recognition of his sensational athletic prowess
while a student. "It's a great job," he had told Jock once, "and I'd be happy in it if it wasn't for Eunice.
She wants more money. She can't bear not to have the things more money would buy, and she knows I'll never make much more—this year. She's right, too, of course," he had amended hastily. "I'll have to get more for her, some way."
Everything Eunice thought and did was right in Brad's eyes; love had given him an incurable astigmatism.

The pause became overlong, and to end it Jock said, "How's the football team look?"
"Good!" replied Brad, brightening instantly. "Shaping up better than we expected. Got a corking backfield—same as last year, you know, except for Weatherby—if we just had some more beef in the line, now, we'd be sitting pretty. I swear, Jock, it seems to me college boys get smaller every year! I was down at the registrar's office
this morning while the freshmen were filling in, and I give you my word of all the sawed-off runts!"

A quick clatter of heels
on hardwood floor and Eunice with them, darkly picturesque in yellow negligee. "You'll have to pardon me, Jock," she said as she entered. "I was just going to bed, and I couldn't stop to dress properly when I knew you were here.
How you, honey? It's mighty good
to see you."

Conventional words; but Eunice had a way of saying them that was not conventional at all. She also had a way of stopping to dress properly when I knew you were here.
How you, honey? It's mighty good
to see you."

"We sure did."
"I reckon you fell in love—oh,
many times!"
"Well, not too many," Jock retorted lightly. "I'm true to you, you know, Eunice." This was the sort of remark that Eunice expected, and that one almost had to make to her, just as one has to say, "Why you don't look a bit sick," to an invalid.

"Prevaricate!" Eunice cried, but she was pleased. "Then see that you prove it by comin' ova' heah often this year—oftenah than you did last. I want to make Brad jealous, to pay him back for givin'
me such a perfectly mis'able sum-mah."

She talked on about the miserable summer, with little thrusts at

The New Bracelets.

THE narrow bracelet has seen its best days. No longer does the girl who is up to the minute in modes wear numerous hoops on the arm. She now wears a single bracelet and it must be wide. For evening wear these are beautiful jewels in wide settings.
In line with this new mode the slave link grows wider, too, and it is not unusual to see a slave bracelet with links one inch long, while those that reach the proportion of nearly two inches square are considered smart.

The really modish bracelet is of gold and, if studded with red, green or blue stones, these are square and large in size.
The world is a nettle; disturb it,
it stings.
Grasp it firmly, it stings not.

Think Twice

Before "trying" an unproved soap on your face

Use only a true complexion soap;
then this way

ONE of the first "don'ts" in skin care, if you wish to safeguard your complexion, is "don't" experiment with untried soaps.

Beauty experts urge daily cleansing of the skin and pores with soap and water. That's judged of prime importance. But you must use the right soap. That is, a true complexion soap.

That is why Palmolive is so widely urged. It is a unique soap; a soap made of rare cosmetic oils for ONE purpose only, to safeguard the complexion. Before it came women were told "use no soap on your face."
Soaps then were judged too harsh.
Remember that point when tempted to "experiment."

Use daily in this way—It is Nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

The daily rule that thousands follow now

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening! Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Just do this and your skin will become soft and lovely—wrinkles will be less a problem as the years advance.

Get real Palmolive

Palmolive costs but 10c the cake
because of great volume and manufacturing efficiency. . . . so little that millions let it do for their bodies
what it does for the face. Obtain a cake today. See what a difference one week's use will make in your complexion. The Palmolive Com-

FOUL!

"Corn Belt Revolt Viewed With Concern."

THE farmers who are in revolt maintain they got a foul jolt at which they're much provoked.

The G. O. P. was hitting low, the farmer charging that below the corn belt he was soaked.

They'll have to treat the farmer right.

For, Cal, they say has seen a light, amounting to a hunch.

If not the farmer in the dell, with him will soon raise merry hell and beat him to the punch.

QUITE SO.

The farmer having discarded suspenders, depends entirely upon the corn belt for support.

As the corn belt expands or contracts, so the prosperity of the farmer is gauged. Right now he is fed up on promises and wants to let out a few notches to the reaction of something more substantial and sustaining.

Jack Dempsey declares that Gene Tunney is a tougher foe than Harry Wills. Having fought neither one of them, Jack ought to know.

Jack claims he has been camping on Harry's trail for five years but has never been able to meet up with him. Harry claims the same thing, which would indicate that they are both bum trailers.

Maybe they have been going around in a circle stepping in each other's footprints. What do you make of it, Watson?

We notice that when Bucky Harris isn't winning pennants he doesn't get along so well with the umpires. It does make a difference.

When it comes to an argument between a ball player and an umpire the ump is a 100 to 1 shot. He can't lose unless he lays down.

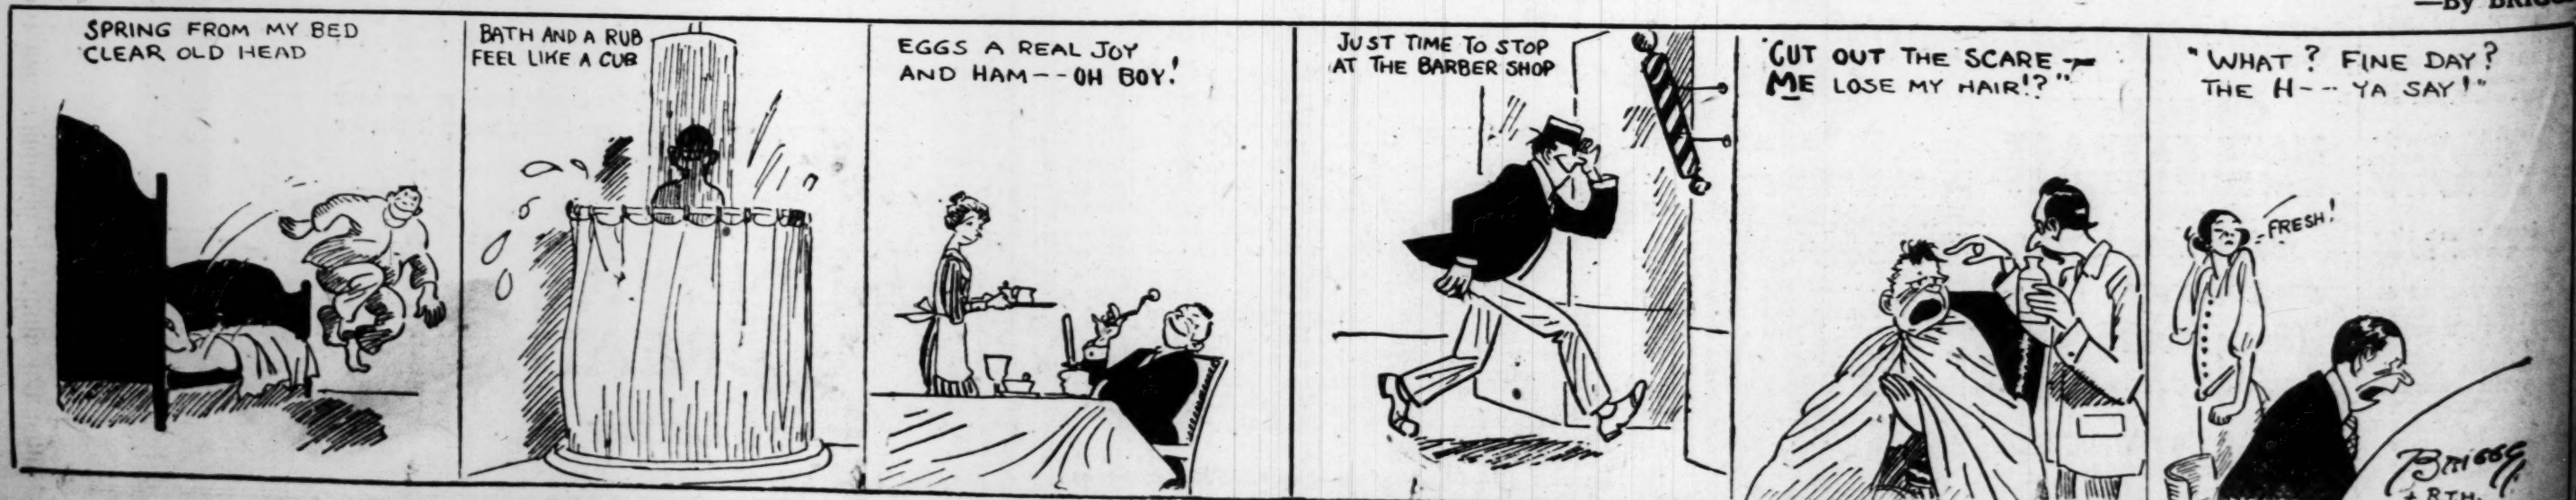

Not even John McGraw, the hero of a hundred hard-fought battles with the knights of the indicator, can point to a single victory.

Mellowed by time John finally took off the spangles and acknowledged defeat. It's a wise guy that knows when he's licked.

HOLD MRS. HALL'S
BROTHER, COUSIN
FOR GRAND JURY
IN MURDER CASEWillie Stevens and Her

complices of Slain R

AT SOMERVILLE, N.Prosecutor Will Call Sp
cial Inquisitorial Body Consider Action as So as Possible.

By the Associated Press
SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 17.—
Henry de la Bruyere Carpen ter and Willie Stevens were held in the grand jury today as ac complices in the murder of the Edward Wheeler Hall and his Eleanor H. Mills four years ago.
County Judge Cleary, be fore whom the hearing began last day, said the State had establish ed a prima facie case and one warranted the attention of grand jury.

Carpenter and Stevens were remanded to jail.

State Senator Simpson, spe cial prosecutor, said he planned to call a special grand jury as soon as possible and present to it the evidence on which the two were h eld.

The regular grand jury is in session, and could be called in a few days, but Simpson said the in vestigation had talked too much about the case.

Simpson also announced that he would move to revoke the $10,000 bail on which Mrs. Frances S tevens Hall, widow of the slain
brother, was released after her ar rest on the murder charge.

Defense Testimony Barred.
Judge Cleary decided that defense would not be permitted to call witnesses. He would not permit Carpendar and Stevens to testify under oath, but advised coun sel they might answer the charges sworn, but defense counsel would not permit this.

The rector and his choir sing
were slain at their trysting place beneath a crabapple tree on Phillips farm, near Brunswick,
the night of Sept. 14, 1929.

At the time, Mrs. Frances S
tevens Hall, widow of the slain
brother, was released after her ar
rest on the murder charge.

Stevens is her eccentric bro ther, and Carpendar, a Wall street br
oer, is a cousin.

The prosecution yesterday in duced another witness who testi fied to hearing shots at the Phil lips farm at the supposed time of the murders. The witness was Anna Hoag, who, at the time, w as sitting on the porch of a fa rmhouse, only a few hundred feet from the scene of the murders.
She heard four shots—three
then after a few seconds a fourth.
Her husband, she said, had been the back of the house shutting for the night, but had declared also had heard the shots when came in a few moments later.

Mrs. Hoag's testimony was further corroborated by Mrs. J Gibson's story that she heard shots, then saw Mrs. Hall, Ste vens and Carpendar at the scene of the murders at 10:30 o'clock.

Mail Carrier Tells of Parked Ca

A number of witnesses have tes tified to seeing a Dodge sedan parked at this spot. Mrs. Gib son told of seeing a small red car parked there.

Dr. and Mrs. Hall owned a Dodge sedan and Dr. Hall did take the sedan when he left home for the last time.

Additional corroboration of the details of Mrs. Gibson's tes timony by members of the New ark police. The officers said they had found two cedar saplings on the Phil lips farm to which Mrs. Gibson said she tied her mule just before she saw Mrs. Hall, Stevens and Carpenter. Under the saplings w ere the unmistakable hoofprints of mules, the officers testified.
